HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—A man whose body was found tied in a blanket in a mining operation three miles east of here Wednesday was identified as Ferdinand Iacomo, 47, of Chester, Pa., by Capt. Joseph Melvaine of the Pennsylvania State Police.

Iacomo, Melvaine said, had been arrested on a gambling charge July 25 by state police in Philadelphia. Identification was made through the victim's fingerprints at the Harrisburg headquarters of the state police.

On the body were a pack of cigarettes and a book of matches. Police said the state tax stamp code number indicated the cigarettes had been purchased in Chester and the matches bore the advertisement of a Chester vending company.

The body was found at the Kasco Coal Co. Dr. Julius Foltz, a pathologist at Hazleton State Hospital, said the man died of strangulation.

State Traffic Deaths Decline

HARRISBURG (AP)—The number of traffic fatalities in Pennsylvania during the first six months of 1963 dropped 11 per cent from the same period in 1962, giving the commonwealth one of the lowest traffic fatality rates.

Harry H. Brainerd, Pennsylvania commissioner of traffic safety, said total auto fatalities during the first six months of this year were 664, compared to 743 last year.

Pennsylvania had the lowest number of traffic fatalities per 100,000 population with 11.7. Highest was Texas with 23.5.

To date, 14 have died in Monroe County traffic accidents.

Road Builders Pledge No Bias

WASHINGTON (AP)—Contractors who build federal-state highways have been asked since July 22 to pledge they will not discriminate racially in hiring workers.

A Bureau of Public Roads spokesman said this requirement is in line with President Kennedy's order of June 22 barring racial discrimination on federally aided projects.

Asked about reports that some Southern state officials have objected strenuously to the policy, the spokesman said:

"If there have been any objections I do not know about them. We do not anticipate any trouble. After all, a great many contractors in the South use quite a few Negroes on highway work."

Mississippi Primary Runoff

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson and former Gov. J. P. Coleman planned Wednesday for a Democratic primary runoff for governor—their second in eight years.

Steadily mounting returns from Tuesday's first primary voting kept the two political veterans well ahead in the four-man race. Sources close to both men predicted the runoff campaign would make the uneasy racial situation the prime topic.

With 1,632 of the state's 1,890 precincts reporting, Johnson had 134,017 votes to 114,168 for Coleman. Charles Sullivan trailed with 96,680, while run-for-run candidate Robert Mason had 2,263.

400 Seek Job Training Help

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania State Employment Service said 40 area offices were visited or contacted by telephone Wednesday by more than 400 persons seeking information on a massive training program aimed at reducing unemployment.

The program, under the auspices of industry, business and federal and state governments, calls for the training and placement of 5,000 persons in existing job openings within the next 12 months. Classes are to get under way Sept. 1.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's three-day rally jolted to an end Wednesday with unusually high-flying issues brought down to earth.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 3.14 to 703.92 after having been ahead more than a point early in the session.

Volume edged up to 3.79 million shares from 3.77 million Tuesday.

Haitian Government, Rebels Both Claim Battle Victory

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—President Francois Duvalier's regime claimed Wednesday its troops crushed a rebel invading force and drove it across the border into the Dominican Republic after several hours of fighting in north Haiti Monday.

Private sources in the Haitian capital tended to confirm the government's claim, but insisted the rebel leader, Gen. Leon Cantave, was still inside Haitian territory pursuing his drive to bring down Duvalier's regime.

A Haitian rebel spokesman in the Dominican Republic denied the Duvalier government's claim of victory. He said the Haitian government was attempting to demoralize anti-Duvalier Haitians and discourage Haitians from joining the rebel forces.

Exile sources in Santo Domingo, capital of the neighboring Dominican Republic, continued to claim rebel gains. These sources insisted two Haitian rebel columns had spread down past Cap-Haitien and a third was moving across the northwest peninsula in an apparent pincer action on Gonaives, a west coast port and Haiti's third largest city.

However, a Haitian government communique issued by Information Minister George J. Figaro contradicted rebel claims of advances deep inside north Haiti after seaborne landings Sunday and Monday.

Dominican Help? Figaro insisted rebels wearing Dominican army uniforms crossed into Haiti from the neighboring Dominican Republic Sunday night and captured the frontier post of Meline by surprise.

The communique said the rebels drove on Ft. Liberté, midway on the road to Cap-Haitien, Haiti's second city, about 35 miles to the west of the Dominican border.

The rebels never reached Ft. Liberté as they claimed but were driven back across the Dominican border after several hours of fighting, the communique said.

Rebel 1st lieutenant and exile sources had said the original force of 500 invaders was swelled in the last two days by soldiers who deserted Duvalier.

B. J. Claude Raymond, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, told newsmen the rebel force had been liquidated, with some of the rebels killed or captured.

He said rebel Gen. Leon Cantave was not among them.

He denied that Fort Liberté, near where rebels reportedly landed early Monday, or other villages in the area or the Cap-Haitien airport had been captured.

Private sources here also discounted the size of the invading force and its chances of success overthrusting the Duvalier regime.

Rumors of new invasions swept Port au Prince, but there was nothing to substantiate them.

Official quarters showed no extraordinary preoccupation with the situation. No particular new security measures could be observed in the city. There was no censorship, as there had been during the Dominican-Haitian crisis last April and May. Newsmen were unable to get permission to travel to the interior, however.

It was learned that about 30 Americans living on a sisal plantation in the Fort Liberté area were moved at their own request to Cap-Haitien.

Gonaives, the reported immediate objective of the rebels, is 70 miles northwest of Port au Prince. It is the market place for the Artibonite plain, the nation's breadbasket.

Interstate Traffic Safety Bill Signed

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Scranton signed into law Wednesday an act which authorizes the Commonwealth to enter into interstate compacts on required safety equipment for motor vehicles.

—Give probation officers the power to arrest parole or probation violators.

—Authorize county commissioners to use current tax revenues, or issue general obligation bonds, to pay engineers or staff members of county or regional planning commissions.

The law is designed to bring the laws, rules and regulations of the various states relating to vehicle equipment into uniformity.

The compact shall take effect when approved by six or more states.

Other Laws

Other laws signed by Scranton Wednesday:

—Increase borough appropriations for community nurse services from $2,000 to $5,000.

—Appropriate $235,000 for the extension of the Clarion area municipal sewerage system to include Clarion State College.

—Authorize first-class township boards of commissioners to appropriate funds to industrial development agencies.

—Extend from five to 20 years the length of time portions of state-owned airports may be leased if the lessee proposes to make major capital investments on the leased premises.

—Permit federally insured building and loan associations to

Negro March On Capitol To Be Quiet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negro leaders said Wednesday all precautions are being taken to prevent violence or disorder at the massive Aug. 28 civil rights march in Washington.

"Certainly the people are not coming here to do something that would discredit their own movement," said A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and march director.

Randolph spoke to some 60 or 70 congressmen gathered in a Capitol conference room.

He said: "I appeal to you that the time is short; it is later than anybody thinks. The Negroes will not continue to submit to humiliation, regardless of the costs . . . even if it costs their lives."

26 Nations Join Treaty Banning Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new nuclear test ban treaty is thrown open to all nations today and 26-led by Australia—are scheduled to sign here during the day.

President Kennedy also will send the treaty to the Senate for ratification, accompanied by a special message Thursday, the White House announced. Hearings begin Monday.

Asst. White House press secretary Andrew Hatcher said he knew of no change in this plan although the President was summoned suddenly to Otis Air Force Base in Massachusetts where Mrs. Kennedy gave birth by Caesarean section to their third child—a boy.

Administration sources appeared confident that the Senate would okay the treaty by the

Railroad Firemen Called

WASHINGTON (AP)—The men with power to speak for the railroad firemen—key figures in the "featherbedding" dispute—were told Wednesday to gather here next week so they will be handy if any possible solution is reached.

"If there is to be an agreement this group has got to be here," Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said.

But there were no outward signs of progress toward that goal as negotiators for firemen who operate the trains outside the locomotives continued renewed face-to-face talks with railroad spokesmen under the hopeful eye of Wirtz.

The almost constant series of talks this week is expected to determine whether the two sides can end their four-year stalemate over work rules or whether Congress must act to prevent a nationwide railroad strike Aug. 23.

Union Meeting

J. L. Shattuck, vice president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, summoned the 15-member general chairman of the union to meet here Tuesday. These men, chairmen of employee groups, have authority to act for the union on any prospective settlement.

The railroads contend that firemen on modern diesel locomotives in yards and on freights are unnecessary. They denounce it as "featherbedding" and say they intend to put in new work rules which will include elimination of over 22,000 of these jobs over a gradual period—plus several thousand other jobs.

Savings and Loan

—Extend to federal savings and loan associations all the rights, powers, privileges, benefits, immunities and exemptions provided under state law to state building and loan associations.

—Remove the limitations which had restricted appropriations of more than 10 cents per capita to industrial development agencies outside their immediate area.

—Require court distribution of the properties of dissolved community non-profit industrial development corporations.

—Authorize boroughs and third-class cities to charge a tipping fee on sanitary sewer lines, as well as rentals.

—Require second-class counties to pay habeas corpus filing fees when ordered by the court.

—Increase the salaries of sixth-class county auditors from $12.50 to $15 daily and mileage reimbursement from six to 10 cents a mile.

—Repeal superfluous sections of a 1929 law dealing with the duties of the welfare department in relation to mental patients. The sections are superseded by the mental health act of 1951.

—Increase compensation of eighth class county auditors from $12.50 to $15 daily and boost travel allowances from 6 to 10 cents per mile.

—Provide for the automatic renewal every five years of unsatisfied liens filed by the state revenue department.

—Exempt from realty transfer taxes any transfer to nonprofit industrial development agencies.

—Permit the Pittsburgh School District to deposit less than 25 percent of its tax revenues.

—Provide for loss of tax exempt status of property of charitable institutions if it is not used for the principal purposes of the institution or if it is used in competition with a commercial enterprise.

Escalator Crushes Father, Daughter

CHERRY HILL, N. J. (AP)—A father and daughter were crushed to death Wednesday when they were squeezed into a small opening at the top of a moving stairway at the closed Garden State Park race track.

The accident came soon after a repainting had removed a protective metal plate to make adjustments.

Patrick J. Sweeney, 56, and his daughter, Peggy, 10, of nearby Maple Shade were crushed into an opening between the staircase's protective cover and the point where the stairs reverse and return to the ground floor.

Cherry Hill Police Chief Frank G. Jones said Sweeney, his daughter and Ronald Haines of Maple Shade were seen walking around the track a few minutes before the tragedy.

They got on the stairs, which rise 35 feet from the ground floor to the mezzanine of the grandstand, apparently unaware of the opening at the top, Jones said.

He added that the girl may have tipped as she was pulled into the opening head first and crushed between the casing and the stairs as they revolved around an axle.

Sweeney was pulled in feet first, his head and arms remaining above floor level. The jammed staircase caused a short circuit in the machine, stopping it.

The Haines boy became hysterical and fled, Jones said. Police began a search for him.

Track attendants said it was not known how the three had entered the grounds. Sweeney had been employed in the track's maintenance department last year, they added.

Track employees and rescue workers from Cherry Hill, Audubon and Erlton units rushed to the scene but were unable to remove the wedged bodies.

Workers pulled apart the staircase, using acetylene torches.

Torrential Rain Floods Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Torrential rain swamped sections of this industrial city of 500,000 Wednesday, sending floodwaters swirling into thousands of cellars and forcing the evacuation by boat of 300 people in an eastern suburb.

Almost four inches of rain came down in 5 1/2 hours, most of it in the mid-morning rush hours. The flood was Buffalo's second in less than two weeks. The rain was the heaviest within 21 hours in 70 years.

Buses stopped running. Abandoned cars, some with water up to their roofs, dotted many of the city's main intersections. Hospitals pumped water out of basements and lobbies. Power was knocked out.

Many stores and several factories were forced to close because workers were unable to get through water-choked streets.

Damage was expected to run into several million dollars—very little of it covered by insurance.

More than four feet of water lay over the heavily flooded sections.

In suburban Cheektowaga, which has not had a flood in 30 years, 15 boats moved stranded families to a high school. Police in the suburb said about 80 percent of the homes there suffered flood damage. Some cellar walls caved in.

The storm, touched off by the approach of a cold front from Canada, started about 5 a.m. It was over by late morning and skies cleared.

Almost six feet of water streamed into the basement of Buffalo's Meyer Memorial Hospital.

Last week, a 2.57-inch deluge caused flood damage estimated between $300,000 to $1.5 million. Several families were evacuated on Buffalo's South Side. Wednesday's storm flooded cellars in that area, many for the second time.

One Cheektowaga housewife said her 700-pound food freezer was "floating like a cork" in their basement and water had reached the kitchen when they were awakened. With her were her two young sons and her partially blind mother.

"I don't know what to expect when we return home, probably tomorrow," she said. "It will be an awful mess."

Duck Hunting Liberalization In The Works

WASHINGTON (AP)—Informal sources said Wednesday it appears certain there will be some liberalization for the 1963-64 season of the restrictive duck hunting regulations adopted last year.

This would come as Daniel H. Janzen, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries, and his staff worked on final draft of proposed regulations to be presented to Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udell. They hoped to have them ready by Monday.

His staff recommended some liberalization, it was learned, and spokesmen for the four flyway councils urged relaxation of the tight rules put in last year because of reductions in duck production due to drought in breeding areas.

The Audubon Society proposed that there be no change in the regulations so as to permit a build-up in breeding stock.

President Visits Newborn Baby Boy With Lung Trouble

BOSTON (AP)—President Kennedy visited his ailing newborn son Wednesday night in a hospital where the premature infant was taken from nearby Otis Air Force Base after it was born by Caesarean section earlier Wednesday.

The President went to a fifth floor room set aside for the new baby. There he donned a white gown and mask and went in the room to see the child after consulting with Dr. James E. Dronbaugh, a pediatrician called in when the child developed a breathing difficulty.

Children's Hospital Medical Center, where the baby lay, said the ailment was diagnosed as idiopathic respiratory distress syndrome.

White house press secretary Pierre Salinger said "in laymen's language this is a respiratory problem in which a breathing problem develops."

Not Uncommon

"I am told this is not uncommon in premature children," he said.

"The baby is in an isolette, which is an advanced type of incubator," Salinger said.

He said the baby, on arrival from the Otis base, was taken from the isolette for X-rays and given medication to help its breathing. Then it was placed in a hospital incubator.

The baby was baptized Wednesday by Father John Scabill, chaplain at Otis AFB, Salinger said.

The baby was named Patrick Bouvier Kennedy after the President's grandfather and Mrs. Kennedy's father.

The President's grandfather was Patrick J., and his father is Joseph Patrick Kennedy. Mrs. Kennedy's father was John Bouvier.

Quick baptisms of premature babies are not uncommon among Catholics.

Salinger said that he could not give a report on the baby's condition right now since the doctors, he said, report the breathing difficulty takes about four days to develop to a point where they can make a final diagnosis.

Not Critical

Asked whether the baby was on the critical list, Salinger answered quickly "I would not say that."

Salinger said the baby will be in the hospital in Boston at least four days and Mrs. Kennedy will remain at the Otis AFB Hospital for an undetermined time.

The President remained overnight at a Boston hotel. He planned to leave about 9:45 a.m. Thursday for another short visit with his new son.

Then he will fly back to Otis AFB to be with Mrs. Kennedy during the day.

He plans to remain at Otis until about 6:30 p.m. when he plans to fly back to Boston to visit the baby again and spend the night there.

Sees Wife

Before coming to Boston Wednesday night, the President spent most of the afternoon with Mrs. Kennedy, went to his summer home on Squaw Island to visit his two other children and to dine alone, then went back for another brief visit with his wife.

Salinger reported that Mrs. Kennedy's condition Wednesday night was fine.

He also reported that Mrs. Kennedy saw her new son more than once before he was taken to Boston.

The last time, Salinger said, was about 1:25 p.m. when the President himself wheeled the baby in an isolette to the First Lady's hospital room.

The infant was delivered at 12:52 p.m.

The President arrived at the Boston hospital at 9:28 p.m., about two hours after the ambulance carrying his newest child pulled up from the 60-mile drive.

On the drive from the airport to the hospital thousands of persons lined the street, cheering and waving to the President as it to offer encouragement.

Caesarean Birth Older Than Caesar

WASHINGTON (AP)—The newest Kennedy-like his brother and sister—entered the world Wednesday by caesarean section, a technique perhaps older than Julius Caesar.

But only a legend holds that Caesar was born that way. And only the advance of medical science over the last 100 years has made caesarean section safe for mother and child.

The surgeon must make an incision through the abdomen and the wall of the uterus to reach the baby. Then these incisions must be closed.

The chance of infection and uncontrolled bleeding made it a risky procedure; even as late as the early 1900's, death came in half the cases.

Modern techniques have reduced the hazards greatly.

The earliest recorded caesarean case was that of a Swiss who operated on his wife nearly 500 years ago.

Roman law specified that the operation be performed on any woman dying in advanced pregnancy.

Salinger said the baby will be in the hospital in Boston at least four days and Mrs. Kennedy will remain at the Otis AFB Hospital for an undetermined time.

Islette Box

He was in a clear plastic box known as an isolette.

A short time after the baby's arrival, a hospital spokesman announced he was being X-rayed and would be given medication of an antiseptic drug to ease breathing.

The infant's ailment was described as idiopathic respiratory distress syndrome—in laymen's language, difficulty with breathing. The cause is unknown.

The hospital spokesman said the condition often occurs among premature babies delivered by Caesarean section. It was explained that the lungs fail to develop sufficiently to function properly outside the mother's body.

Those in attendance at the hospital included Dr. James E. Dronbaugh, who had flown to the military hospital earlier to examine the baby.

The announcement of the baby's ailment came at 5 p.m., a little more than four hours after Dr. John Walsh of Washington delivered the child at the Air Force hospital.

Family Fakes $50,000 Bid For Benefits

HARRISBURG (AP)—Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandro said Wednesday the Justice Department and Labor and Industry Department are investigating the possibility of a widespread unemployment compensation chisel ring, based in Philadelphia.

"It appears to cover a three-state area," Alessandro told a newsmen. "At least one family in Philadelphia is involved."

"The chiseling works with what appears to be a knowledge of the operations of the Bureau of Employment Security, or advice on the operations of the bureau," Alessandro said.

"The question now is whether it is just the one family running the scheme, or whether it is a widespread ring," he added. "It will take a painstaking check of records."

He declined to identify the family involved pending further investigation.

State Traffic Deaths Decline

HARRISBURG (AP)—The number of traffic fatalities in Pennsylvania during the first six months of 1963 dropped 11 per cent from the same period in 1962, giving the commonwealth one of the lowest traffic fatality rates.

Harry H. Brainerd, Pennsylvania commissioner of traffic safety, said total auto fatalities during the first six months of this year were 664, compared to 743 last year.

Pennsylvania had the lowest number of traffic fatalities per 100,000 population with 11.7. Highest was Texas with 23.5.

To date, 14 have died in Monroe County traffic accidents.

Road Builders Pledge No Bias

WASHINGTON (AP)—Contractors who build federal-state highways have been asked since July 22 to pledge they will not discriminate racially in hiring workers.

A Bureau of Public Roads spokesman said this requirement is in line with President Kennedy's order of June 22 barring racial discrimination on federally aided projects.

Asked about reports that some Southern state officials have objected strenuously to the policy, the spokesman said:

"If there have been any objections I do not know about them. We do not anticipate any trouble. After all, a great many contractors in the South use quite a few Negroes on highway work."

Mississippi Primary Runoff

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson and former Gov. J. P. Coleman planned segregation-centered strategy Wednesday for a Democratic primary runoff for governor—their second in eight years.

Steadily mounting returns from Tuesday's first primary voting kept the two political veterans well ahead in the four-man race. Sources close to both men predicted the runoff campaign would make the uneasy racial situation the prime topic.

With 1,622 of the state's 1,890 precincts reporting, Johnson had 134,017 votes to 114,168 for Coleman. Charles Sullivan trailed with 96,680 while run-for-run candidate Robert Mason had 2,263.

400 Seek Job Training Help

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania State Employment Service said 16 area offices were visited or contacted by telephone Wednesday by more than 400 persons seeking information on a massive training program aimed at reducing unemployment.

The program, under the auspices of industry, business and federal and state governments, calls for the training and placement of 5,000 persons in existing job openings within the next 12 months. Classes are to get under way Sept. 1.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's three-day rally tilted to an end Wednesday with unusually high-flying issues brought down to earth.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 3.14 to 703.92 after having been ahead more than a point early in the session.

Volume edged up to 3.79 million shares from 3.77 million Tuesday.

Haitian Government, Rebels Both Claim Battle Victory

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—President Francois Duvalier's regime claimed Wednesday its troops crushed a rebel invading force and drove it across the border into the Dominican Republic after several hours of fighting in north Haiti Monday.

Private sources in the Haitian capital tended to confirm the government's claim, but insisted the rebel leader, Gen. Leon Cantave, was still inside Haitian territory pursuing his drive to bring down Duvalier's regime.

A Haitian rebel spokesman in the Dominican Republic denied the Duvalier government's claim of victory. He said the Haitian government was attempting to demoralize anti-Duvalier Haitians and discourage Haitians from joining the rebel forces.

Exile sources in Santo Domingo, capital of the neighboring Dominican Republic, continued to claim rebel gains. These sources insisted two Haitian rebel columns had speared down past Cap-Haitien and a third was moving across the northwest peninsula in an apparent pincer action on Gonaives, a west coast port and Haiti's third largest city.

However, a Haitian government communique issued by Information Minister George J. Figaro contradicted rebel claims of advances deep inside north Haiti after seaborne landings Sunday and Monday.

Dominican Help? Figaro insisted rebels wearing Dominican army uniforms crossed into Haiti from the neighboring Dominican Republic Sunday night and captured the frontier post of Meillac by surprise.

The communique said the rebels drove on Ft. Liberté, midway on the road to Cap-Haitien, Haiti's second city, about 35 miles to the west of the Dominican border.

The rebels never reached Ft. Liberté as they claimed but were driven back across the Dominican border after several hours of fighting, the communique said.

Rebel informant and exile sources had said the original force of 500 invaders was swelled in the last two days by soldiers who deserted Duvalier.

But Claude Raymond, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, told newsmen the rebel force had been liquidated, with some of the rebels killed or captured.

He said rebel Gen. Leon Cantave was not among them.

He denied that Fort Liberté, near where rebels reportedly landed early Monday, or other villages in the area or the Cap-Haitien airport had been captured.

Private sources here also discounted the size of the invading force and its chances of success overthrowing the Duvalier regime.

Rumors of new invasions swept Port au Prince, but there was nothing to substantiate them.

Official quarters showed no extraordinary preoccupation with the situation. No particular new security measures could be observed in the city. There was no censorship, as there had been during the Dominican-Haitian crisis last April and May. Newsmen were unable to get permission to travel to the interior, however.

It was learned that about 30 Americans living on a small plantation in the Fort Liberté area were moved at their own request to Cap-Haitien.

Interstate Traffic Safety Bill Signed

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton signed into law Wednesday an act which authorizes the Commonwealth to enter into interstate compacts on required safety equipment for motor vehicles.

The law is designed to bring the laws, rules and regulations of the various states relating to vehicle equipment into uniformity.

The compact shall take effect when approved by six or more states.

Other Laws

Other laws signed by Scranton Wednesday:

- Increase borough appropriations for community nurse services from $2,000 to $5,000.
- Appropriate $25,000 for the extension of the Clarion area municipal sewerage system to include Clarion State College.
- Authorize first-class township boards of commissioners to appropriate funds to industrial development agencies.
- Extend from five to 20 years the length of time portions of state-owned airports may be leased if the lessee proposes to make major capital investments on the leased premises.
- Permit federally insured building and loan associations to

Negro March On Capitol To Be Quiet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro leaders said Wednesday all precautions are being taken to prevent violence or disorder at the massive Aug. 28 civil rights march in Washington.

"Certainly the people are not coming here to do something that would discredit their own movement," said A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and march director.

Randolph spoke to some 60 or 70 congressmen gathered in a Capitol conference room.

He said: "I appeal to you that the time is short; it is later than anybody thinks. The Negroes will not continue to submit to humiliation, regardless of the costs... even if it costs their lives."

26 Nations Join Treaty Banning Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new nuclear test ban treaty is thrown open to all nations today and 26-led by Australia—are scheduled to sign here during the day.

President Kennedy also will send the treaty to the Senate for ratification, accompanied by a special message Thursday, the White House announced. Hearings begin Monday.

Asst. White House press secretary Andrew Hatcher said he knew of no change in this plan although the President was summoned suddenly to Otis Air Force Base in Massachusetts where Mrs. Kennedy gave birth by Caesarean section to their third child—a boy.

Administration sources appeared confident that the Senate would okay the treaty by the

Escalator Crushes Father, Daughter

CHERRY HILL, N. J. (AP)—A father and daughter were crushed to death Wednesday when they were squeezed into a small opening between the stairs and the top of a moving staircase at the closed Garden State Park race track.

The accident came soon after a repairman had removed a protective metal plate to make adjustments.

Patrick J. Sweeney, 56, and his daughter, Peggy, 10, of nearby Maple Shade were crushed into an opening between the staircase's protective cover and the point where the stairs reverse and return to the ground floor.

Cherry Hill Police Chief Frank G. Jones said Sweeney's daughter and Ronald Haines of Maple Shade were seen walking around the track a few minutes before the tragedy.

They got on the stairs, which rise 35 feet from the ground floor to the mezzanine of the grandstand, apparently unaware of the opening at the top, Jones said.

He added that the girl may have tripped as she was pulled into the opening head first and crushed between the casing and the stairs as they revolved around an axle.

Sweeney was pulled in feet first, his head and arms remaining above floor level. The jammed staircase caused a short circuit in the machine, stopping it.

The Haines boy became hysterical and fled, Jones said. Police began a search for him.

Track attendants said it was not known how the three had entered the grounds. Sweeney had been employed in the track's maintenance department last year, they added.

Track employees and rescue workers from Cherry Hill, Audubon and Erlon units rushed to the scene but were unable to remove the wedged bodies.

Workers pulled apart the staircase, using acetylene torches.

Railroad Firemen Called

WASHINGTON (AP)—The men with power to speak for the railroad firemen—key figures in the "featherbedding" dispute—were told Wednesday to gather here next week so they will be handy if any possible solution is reached.

"If there is to be an agreement this group has got to be here," Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said.

But there were no outward signs of progress toward that goal as negotiators for firemen who operate the trains outside the locomotives continued renewed face-to-face talks with railroad spokesmen under the hopeful eye of Wirtz.

The almost constant series of talks this week is expected to determine whether the two sides can end their four-year stalemate over work rules or whether Congress must act to prevent a nationwide railroad strike Aug. 29.

Union Meeting

J. L. Shattuck, vice president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, summoned the 156-member general chairman of the union to meet here Tuesday. These men, chairmen of employ groups, have authority to act for the union on any prospective settlement.

The railroads contend that firemen on modern diesel locomotives in yards and on freights are unnecessary. They denounce it as "featherbedding" and say they intend to put in new work rules which will include elimination of 32,000 of these jobs over a gradual period — plus several thousand other jobs.

Torrential Rain Floods Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Torrential rain swamped sections of this industrial city of 500,000 Wednesday, sending floodwaters swirling into thousands of cellars and forcing the evacuation by boat of 300 people in an eastern suburb.

Almost four inches of rain came down in 5½ hours, most of it in the midmorning rush hours. The flood was Buffalo's second in less than two weeks. The rain was the heaviest within 24 hours in 70 years.

Buses stopped running. Abandoned cars, some with water up to their roofs, dotted many of the city's main intersections. Hospitals pumped water out of basements and lobbies. Power was knocked out.

Many stores and several factories were forced to close because workers were unable to get through water-choked streets.

Damage was expected to run into several million dollars—very little of it covered by insurance.

More than four feet of water lay over the heavily flooded sections.

In suburban Cheektowaga, which has not had a flood in 30 years, 15 boats moved stranded families to a high school. Police in the suburb said about 80 per cent of the homes there suffered flood damage. Some cellar walls caved in.

The storm, touched off by the approach of a cold front from Canada, started about 5 a.m. It was over by late morning and skies cleared.

Almost six feet of water streamed into the basement of Buffalo's Meyer Memorial Hospital.

Last week, a 3.37-inch deluge caused flood damage estimated between $500,000 to $1.5 million. Several families were evacuated on Buffalo's South Side. Wednesday's storm flooded cellars in that area, many for the second time.

One Cheektowaga housewife said her 100-pound food freezer was "floating like a cork" in their basement and water had reached the kitchen when they were evacuated. With her were her two young sons and her partially blind mother.

"I don't know what to expect when we return home, probably tomorrow," she said. "It will be an awful mess."

Duck Hunting Liberalization In The Works

WASHINGTON (AP)—Informed sources said Wednesday it appears certain there will be some liberalization for the 1963-64 season of the restrictive duck hunting regulations adopted last year.

This word came as Daniel H. Janzen, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries, and his staff worked on final draft of proposed regulations to be presented to Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall. They hoped to have them ready by Monday.

His staff recommended some liberalization, it was learned, and spokesmen for the four flyway councils urged relaxation of the tight rules put in last year because of reductions in duck production due to drought in breeding areas.

The Audubon Society proposed that there be no change in the regulations so as to permit a build-up in breeding stock.

The department forecast Tuesday that the numbers of ducks this fall will show a moderate increase over last year's flights in the Pacific, Central and Mississippi Flyways, with a small increase in the Atlantic Flyway.

BOSTON (AP) — President Kennedy visited his ailing newborn son Wednesday night in a hospital where the premature infant was taken from nearby Otis Air Force Base after it was born by Caesarian section earlier Wednesday.

The President went to a fifth floor room set aside for the new baby. There he donned a white gown and mask and went in the room to see the child after consulting with Dr. James E. Droege, a pediatrician called in when the child developed a breathing difficulty.

Children's Hospital Medical Center, where the baby lay, said the ailment was diagnosed as idiopathic respiratory distress syndrome.

White house press secretary Pierre Salinger said "in laymen's language this is a respiratory problem in which a breathing problem develops."

Not Uncommon

"I am told this is not uncommon in premature children," he said.

"The baby is in an isolette, which is an advanced type of incubator," Salinger said.

He said the baby, on arrival from the Otis base, was taken from the isolette for X-rays and given medication to help its breathing. Then it was placed in a hospital incubator.

The baby was baptized Wednesday by Father John Schull, chaplain at Otis AFB, Salinger said.

The baby was named Patrick Bouvier Kennedy after the President's grandfather and Mrs. Kennedy's father.

The President's grandfather was Patrick J., and his father is Joseph Patrick Kennedy. Mrs. Kennedy's father was John Bouvier.

Quick baptisms of premature babies are not uncommon among Catholics.

Salinger said that he could not give a report on the baby's condition right now since the doctors, he said, report the breathing difficulty takes about four days to develop to a point where they can make a final diagnosis.

Not Critical

Asked whether the baby was on the critical list, Salinger answered quickly "I would not say that."

Family Fakes $50,000 Bid For Benefits

HARRISBURG (AP) — Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandrini said Wednesday the Justice Department and Labor and Industry Department are investigating the possibility of a widespread unemployment compensation chiseling ring, based in Philadelphia.

"It appears to cover a three-state area," Alessandrini told a newsman. "At least one family in Philadelphia is involved."

"The chiseling works with what appears to be a knowledge of the operations of the Bureau of Employment Security, or advice on the operations of the bureau," Alessandrini said.

"The question now is whether it is just the one family running the scheme, or whether it is a widespread ring," he added. "It will take a painstaking check of records."

He declined to identify the family involved pending further investigation.

Caesarean Birth Older Than Caesar

WASHINGTON (AP) — The newest Kennedy—like his brother and sister—entered the world Wednesday by caesarean section, a technique perhaps older than Julius Caesar.

But only a legend holds that Caesar was born that way. And only the advance of medical science over the last 100 years has made caesarean section safe for mother and child.

The surgeon must make an incision through the abdomen and the wall of the uterus to reach the baby. Then these incisions must be closed.

The chance of infection and uncontrolled bleeding made it a risky procedure; even as late as the early 1800's, death came in half the cases.

Modern techniques have reduced the hazards greatly.

The earliest recorded caesarean case was that of a Swiss who operated on his wife nearly 500 years ago.

Roman law specified that the operation be performed on any woman dying in advanced pregnancy.

The hospital spokesman said the condition often occurs among premature babies delivered by Caesarean section. It was explained that the lungs fail to develop sufficiently to function properly outside the mother's body.

Those in attendance at the hospital included Dr. James E. Droege, who had flown to the military hospital earlier to examine the baby.

State News Roundup

Seranton Signs Study Aid Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — Legislator creating the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency was signed into law Wednesday by Gov. Scranton.

The fine of the agency rests with a November referendum on a constitutional amendment which would allow the state to make grants or loans for higher educational purposes.

The new agency is authorized to grant college students loans not exceeding $1,000 per academic year, or more than $5,000 altogether.

The loans are repayable six months after the recipient leaves an institution. The repayment time may be extended up to five years.

Trenton Harbor Bill Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House commerce subcommittee heard nothing but praise Wednesday for plans by the Delaware River Port Authority to build a new bridge across the Delaware River at Trenton, N. J., and Morrisville, Pa.

Eight witnesses urged the subcommittee to approve legislation to grant congressional consent to the project.

"I'm enormously enthusiastic about this port development," Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., a sponsor of one bill, said.

Rep. Willard Curran, R-Pa., sponsor of a similar measure, said the toll bridge commission is the only agency which could develop the area as a port.

Alcohol Kills 1,650 Fish

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — An accidental spill of butyl alcohol killed some 1,650 fish in Spring Creek, Centre County, Wednesday, the State Health Department's regional office here reported.

The office said the alcohol was spilled at the Neuse Chemical Co. plant at College Twp. and drained into the stream, killing the fish.

There was no immediate monetary estimate of the loss.

The department said this was the second time this year that an alcohol spill at the Neuse plant had resulted in a fish kill.

Industry Agent To Help Monroe

HARRISBURG (AP) — Herbert T. Axford of Clarke Green was named Tuesday northeastern representative for the Commerce Department's Bureau of Industrial Development.

The 61-year-old industrial development specialist will be in charge of Carbon, Lackawanna, Lehigh, Luzerne, Monroe, Northampton, Pike, Susquehanna, Wayne and Wyoming counties.

His job will be to aid local industrial development groups in the expansion of business and industry.

Builder Agrees To Hire Negroes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Union leaders and large-scale building near downtown Pittsburgh Wednesday and announced they scheduled another mass demonstration for next Monday.

Both involved charges of racial discrimination in hiring.

A mass demonstration set for Wednesday against the Lehigh Valley Corp. contractors for an apartment project, was called off by the United Negro College Fund following an agreement reached with the company.

According to the agreement, Lehigh Valley will hire additional Negro laborers, carpenters, cement finishers, operating machine men and brick layers for future projects.

Budget Chief Rebuts Dems

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton's budget secretary denied Wednesday a Democratic charge that the administration had delayed posting of tax receipts to record a deficit of $11 million in the last fiscal year.

Budget Secretary Martin Threlk said the administration took extraordinary steps in the last two weeks of June to assure that all tax collections would be posted to the fiscal year ending June 30.

David R. Baldwin, budget secretary to former Gov. David L. Lawrence and now assistant to the state treasurer, charged Tuesday that the payments had been deferred so that the present administration could claim the Lawrence administration ran up a deficit.

State News Roundup

Scranton Signs Study Aid Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — Legislation creating the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency was signed into law Wednesday by Gov. Scranton.

The fate of the agency rests with a November referendum on a constitutional amendment which would allow the state to make grants or loans for higher educational purposes.

The new agency is authorized to grant college students loans not exceeding $1,000 per academic year, or more than $3,000 altogether.

The loans are repayable six months after the recipient leaves an institution. The repayment time may be extended up to five years.

Trenton Harbor Bill Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House commerce subcommittee heard nothing but praise Wednesday for plans by the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission to develop a port at Trenton, N. J., and Morrisville, Pa.

Eight witnesses urged the subcommittee to approve legislation to grant congressional consent to the project.

"I'm enormously enthusiastic about this port development," Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., a sponsor of one bill, said.

Rep. Willard Curtin, R-Pa., sponsor of a similar measure, said the toll bridge commission is the only agency which could develop the area as a port.

Alcohol Kills 1,650 Fish

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — An accidental spill of butyl alcohol killed some 1,650 fish in Spring Creek, Centre County, Wednesday, the State Health Department's regional office here reported.

The office said the alcohol was spilled at the Nease Chemical Co. plant at College Twp. and drained into the stream, killing the fish.

There was no immediate monetary estimate of the loss.

The department said this was the second time this year that an alcohol spill at the Nease plant had resulted in a fish kill.

Industry Agent To Help Monroe

HARRISBURG (AP) — Herbert T. Axford of Clarke Green was named Tuesday northeastern representative for the Commerce Department's Bureau of Industrial Development.

The 64-year-old industrial development specialist will be in charge of Carbon, Lackawanna, Lehigh, Luzerne, Monroe, Northampton, Pike, Susquehanna, Wayne and Wyoming counties.

His job will be to aid local industrial development groups in the expansion of business and industry.

Builder Agrees To Hire Negroes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negro leaders led large-scale picketing near downtown Pittsburgh Wednesday and immediately scheduled another mass demonstration for next Monday.

Both involved charges of racial discrimination in hiring.

A mass demonstration set for Wednesday against the Navarro Corp., contractors for an apartment project, was called off by the United Negro Protest Committee following an agreement reached with the company.

According to the agreement, Navarro will hire additional Negro laborers, carpenters, cement finishers, operating engineers and brick layers for future projects.

Budget Chief Rebuts Dems

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton's budget secretary denied Wednesday a Democratic charge that the administration had delayed posting of tax receipts to record a deficit of $14 million in the last fiscal year.

Budget Secretary Martin Brackbill said the administration took extraordinary steps in the last two weeks of June to assure that all tax collection would be posted to the fiscal year ending June 30.

David R. Baldwin, budget secretary to former Gov. David L. Lawrence and now assistant to the state treasurer, charged Tuesday that the payments had been deferred so that the present administration could claim the Lawrence administration ran up a deficit.

Playhouse To Present 'Take Her, She's Mine'

MOUNTAINHOME — "Take Her, She's Mine," the comedy that had Broadway on its feet last season, will be the next attraction at Pocono Playhouse, starring the master of comedians, Hans Conried. The play opens on Monday evening, August 12 and will continue through Saturday, August 17.

Conried will be happily remembered by patrons of the Playhouse for his starring role in "Critic's Choice," presented last season. He has been steadily employed as an actor for more than twenty years, on stage, radio and TV, and also contributed to the nation's insomnia as

Rain Curtails BR Tournament

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Rain forced postponement Wednesday of the official opening of the Mid-Atlantic regional Babe Ruth League baseball tournament at Parkersburg.

Officials said the schedule would be doubled Thursday, weather permitting, to avoid delay in the championship game scheduled for Saturday.

First round games match Hazleton, Pa., against Lakeland, N. J., at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

A regular guest on the Jack Paar show.

He was last seen on Broadway in "Tail Story" and prior to that, he was in Cole Porter's "Can Can." On radio, where Mr. Conried began his acting career, he supported John Barrymore in a series of streamlined Shakespeare and was regularly featured in varied dramatic productions.

On TV, he is no doubt best known in the role of "Uncle Tootnose" in the current series of the Danny Thomas show. Also starring in the play will be Irene Hervey, well known stage and film star.

Phoebe and Henry Ephron, skilled scenarists, have written an affectionate father-daughter play in "Take Her She's Mine." If you happen to have a couple of teen-age daughters, do you wonder what makes them tick — do the things they say and do drive you crazy — do they seem to be living in another world? That gives some idea of what the authors explore in this side-splitting, ingratiating play.

"Take Her She's Mine," is generous with its comedy and swift in serving it. Yet there are sudden, poignant moments which remind one that to be a parent, or to have one or two, is to share a special wonder.

Others in the cast include Tania Everett, Heidi Murray, Dall Forsythe, William Ade, Andy Jarkowsky, Anthony Roberts, Nancy Douglas, Don Marlett and Bill Steele. The play will be directed by George Abbott and matinees are scheduled for Wednesday and Saturday.

Reservations for seats may be made by phoning 595-7456 or at Playhouse box-offices in Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Hazleton. Patrons residing in Allentown, Bethlehem, Phillipsburg, Easton and Hazleton may dial Enterprise 1-0899 toll free.

SPCA Effects Reunion Of Owner, Pet

STROUDSBURG — The services of the Monroe County SPCA reunited a poodle and its mistress on Monday afternoon as a result of a telephone call to Las Vegas, Nevada.

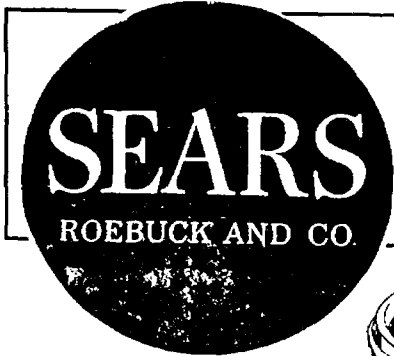

Raymond Niper, SPCA agent, was called by a Bridge Street resident who reported that the poodle appeared to be lost. Niper responded to the call and brought the dog to the SPCA Shelter on Eastown resident of Las Vegas.

Dr. Sunberg immediately called Mrs. Lambert's listed in the Pocono Mountain telephone book and learned that Mrs. Lambert was visiting relatives in the area. Mrs. Lambert was soon reunited with her pet poodle.

Dr. Sunberg urged both permanent and summer residents of the Pocono Mountains to be certain that their dogs are licensed and the licenses are securely attached to the collars. "Many heartbreaks would be prevented," Dr. Sunberg said, "if dog owners would have both licenses and identification tags on their dogs' collars at all times."

1963 dog licenses are still available in the office of the county treasurer in the Monroe County Court House.

Playhouse To Present 'Take Her, She's Mine'

MOUNTAINHOME — "Take Her, She's Mine," the comedy that had Broadway on its ear last season, will be the next attraction at Pocono Playhouse, starring the master of comedians, Hans Conried. The play opens on Monday evening, August 12 and will continue through Saturday, August 17.

Conried will be happily remembered by patrons of the Playhouse for his starring role in "Critter's Choice," presented last season. He has been steadily employed as an actor for more than twenty years, on stage, radio and TV, and also contributed to the nation's insomnia as

Rain Curtails BR Tournament

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Rain forced postponement Wednesday of the official opening of the Mid-Atlantic regional Babe Ruth League baseball tournament at Parkersburg.

Officials said the schedule would be doubled Thursday, weather permitting, to avoid delay in the championship game scheduled for Saturday.

First round games match Hazelton, Pa., against Lakeland, N. J., at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

a regular guest on the Jack Paar show.

He was last seen on Broadway in "Tail Story" and prior to that, he was in Cole Porter's "Can Can." On radio, where Mr. Conried began his acting career, he supported John Barrymore in a series of streamlined Shakespeare and was regularly featured in varied dramatic productions.

On TV, he is no doubt best known in the role of "Uncle Tomoosie" in the current series of the Danny Thomas show. Also starring in the play will be Irene Hervey, well known stage and film star.

Phoebe and Henry Ephron, skilled scenarists, have written an affectionate father-daughter play in "Take Her She's Mine." If you happen to have a couple of teen-age daughters, do you wonder what makes them tick — do the things they say and do drive you crazy — do they seem to be living in another world? That gives some idea of what the authors explore in this side-splitting, ingratiating play.

"Take Her She's Mine," is generous with its comedy and swift in serving it. Yet there are sudden poignant moments which reminds one that to be a parent, or to have one or two, is to share a special wonder.

Others in the cast include: Tania Everett, Heidi Murray, Dall Forsythe, William Ade, Andy Jarkovsky, Anthony Roberts, Nancy Douglas, Don Marlett and Bill Steele. The play will be directed by George Abbott and matinees are scheduled for Wednesday and Saturday.

Reservations for seats may be made by phoning 595-7456 or at Playhouse box-offices in Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Honesdale, Patrons residing in Allentown, Bethlehem, Phillipsburg, Easton and Hazleton may dial Enterprise 1-0899 toll free.

SPCA Effects Reunion Of Owner, Pet

STROUDSBURG — The services of the Monroe County SPCA reunited a poodle and its mistress on Monday afternoon as a result of a telephone call to Las Vegas, Nevada. Raymond Niper, SPCA agent, was called by a Bridge Street resident who reported that the poodle appeared to be lost. Niper responded to the call and brought the dog to the SPCA Shelter on Foxtown Hill.

Upon investigation, Niper found the dog had a Las Vegas dog license attached to its collar.

He notified Dr. Alfred D. Sumberg, SPCA president, who placed the call to the Dog License Bureau in the Las Vegas City Hall. He was given the owner's name, Mrs. Mary Lambert, a resident of Las Vegas.

Dr. Sumberg immediately called Lamberts listed in the Pocono Mountain telephone book and learned that Mrs. Lambert was visiting relatives in the area. Mrs. Lambert was soon reunited with her pet poodle.

Dr. Sumberg urged both permanent and summer residents of the Pocono Mountains to be certain that their dogs are licensed and the licenses are securely attached to the collars.

"Many heartbreaks would be prevented," Dr. Sumberg said, "if dog owners would have both licenses and identification tags on their dogs' collars at all times."

1963 dog licenses are still available in the office of the county treasurer in the Monroe County Court House.

Delaware Pollution

The Delaware River in this area and in the Philadelphia area is not a clear water stream. It is polluted by people, municipalities, businesses and by lack of sanitary controls over most of its course below Stroudsburg.

On Friday the House Subcommittee on Natural Resources and Power will hear 14 witnesses in Trenton and inspect the river basin up to Easton from the air.

Because of time limitations, they are inspecting by boat sewage treatment facilities and industries in the Philadelphia area only.

Pollution of the river is worse in that area because all of the upstream pollution is added to pollution from the heavy industrial and population areas of Philadelphia and Trenton.

But, although it is definitely cleaner in its upper regions from Stroudsburg north along the Pennsylvania-New Jersey border, the problem of pollution is present and will grow suddenly and seriously as the Tocks Island Dam project gets under way and the Tocks Island lake area is developed.

Strong federal laws are needed to clean up and prevent river and stream pollution. It is too bad that individual states have not acted with more courage and responsibility to control pollution.

But politics and business interests, the desire of states to attract new industry and not to offend it, have all conspired against passage of strong sanitation laws and firm enforcement of the state laws we do have.

This vital area appears to be one in which local government — which we would rather depend upon — is powerless or unwilling to act. The states have not done much better.

The last resort is the federal government, which we have to turn to in default of strong local action.

It is a sad fact of American democracy today that the federal government is taking action in housing, civil rights, education just about every problem which has not been attacked by local and state government.

We oppose that trend, but believe that important legislation should be passed in Washington if it is not passed by the states.

Stronger laws and stronger enforcement of laws are needed to clean up the rivers and streams of this area and the whole country which are getting more and more polluted.

We hope the House subcommittee comes up with some strong recommendations and that federal action is taken soon if state and local governments continue to pass the buck.

Constitutional Revision

Ground rules for a referendum on the question of calling a convention to revise the 89-year-old state constitution have been set by law passed in the recent legislature and signed by the governor Monday.

It is the sixth time the people of Pennsylvania have been asked to approve a constitutional convention since the 1874 document was adopted.

The basic ground rules are:

1. Referendum on whether to call a constitutional convention at the Nov. 5 municipal elections.

2. Convention convening in July, 1961, with a deadline of Jan. 15, 1965.

3. Election of three delegates from each state senatorial district at the May 1964, primary. There are 50 districts, and would be 150 delegates. Only two of the three district delegates could be from one party.

4. The revised constitution then goes to the voters in the November, 1965, general election for approval or rejection.

There is massive support for revision of state constitution. Most impressive names in the long list of proponents of revision are those of the last four Pennsylvania governors — two Republicans and two Democrats.

Both Republican Senator Hugh Scott and Democratic Senator Joseph S. Clark are behind it. In Monroe County, both the Democratic Club and the Young Republican Club are backing revision.

The most interested and experienced politicians — the last four governors — and many other political and non-political people believe the constitution must be rewritten.

We agree, and hope the voters will see the need for it.

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denton

Harrisburg — It is generally conceded around Capitol Hill that Pennsylvania's lawmakers have some tough answers to give.

That the now ended 1963 regular legislative session left much to be desired — notwithstanding its accomplishments — is obvious.

However, one of the more ticklish and perhaps more sensitive items on which the Legislature accomplished a complete about face was its failure to provide some $72,000,000 in state aid to colleges, universities and community hospitals.

This is regarded as one of the more serious items in which lawmakers fell down. The state aid program in question is nothing new; rather it is one of those historically accepted programs that is almost as much a part of state government operations today as the issuance of an operator's license.

Yet oddly enough this very program on which lawmakers needed to provide the vast majority of programs that draw state augmentation.

Curiously too, this far-reaching local level program of state aid — perhaps as directly local as any — falls within the ignominious category as "non-preferred" appropriations and as such requires not only a majority of votes in the House and Senate for clearance, but 140 in the House and 34 in the Senate.

What has happened is that for the first time the Legislature has adjourned without approving these hospital and higher education assistance programs — leaving these already-budget-scheduled facilities high and dry, faced with an unexpected problem which if continued could spell serious trouble.

The simple fact is that Mr. Schanzen now has no other choice than to call a special session, or make it a part of the agenda of another special session call (as for example which he must do on legislative reapportionment and may do also on the question of unemployment compensation) to clear these non-preferred appropriations for state aided facilities.

The peculiar hitch about these "non-preferreds" however lies in the two-thirds vote approval required for their clearance — and the reason for the fall-down during the just-ended 1963 general session.

The Administration with its allied 108 Republican members in the House and 27 in the Senate does have the strength necessary for the 106 House and 26 Senate votes needed for majority passage of regular legislation — but not the non-preferred legislation.

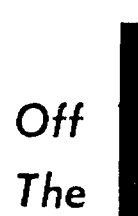

Under such circumstances the question arises as to who is to "blame" for the walk-out on the hospitals and colleges (a somewhat academic question if you consider lawmakers "statesmen" as they prefer?)

Are House and Senate Republican administration lawmakers to blame — when physically they have only 108 of the 140 needed in the House and 27 of the needed 34 in the Senate?

The answer is obvious, of course; anti-administration Democratic lawmakers had no course other than to provide the necessary votes — but they refused. That's the record.

This is perhaps one of the most amazing, one of the most naive and one of the most bizarre blunders House Democrats could conceivably have made (it never got to the Senate) — one that is destined to plague them in the legislative elections next year and which as virtually no other faux pas could, may well seal their doom come 1961.

For Pennsylvania's junketeering hierarchy, it's a rather sad commentary!

Some Tough Answers

Off The Record

—By BOB CLARK

Joey Bishop, Buddy Hackett, name bands and top singers may be the discoes Pocono Mountain residents and vacationists will be eating before long.

Dr. David Shulman, the physician who thrives on tasty tidbits, has far-reaching plans that may turn Monroe County and especially Delaware Water Gap into a holiday-seeker's paradise.

The Little Kunklewood medical recently purchased land on the island near Shawnee Country Club, that appears Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Dr. Shulman and a few hand-picked associates are digging deep into proposals for the site that is expected to rival any social playground in the state.

First and foremost on the minds of the group is to pinpoint Delaware Water Gap the Eighth Wonder of the World. At one time the Gap's name was synonymous with vacations.

However, of late years the once hazy of the holiday world became less prominent. Dr. Shulman and his colleagues hope to do something about this.

Current plans call for a bridge-type boardwalk taking interested persons to the scene that is a marvel of centuries.

The island? Well if you can pick out the main points from Dr. Shulman's rapid-fire voice of optimism you hear the words of Joey Bishop and Buddy Hackett headlining nightly shows at a huge pavilion designed only for the best in show business.

No special target date has been established as yet. But you get the feeling from Dr. Shulman that the project is not far off. Maybe next year would be a more qualified answer.

Certainly if the bubble doesn't burst, the newest playground of the Poconos will be set up in Delaware Water Gap in the not too distant future.

About Town

Two hillbilly drafters were taking their first train ride. A vendor came through the car and each bought a banana, a fruit they had never seen before. One of them just started to eat when the train went into the tunnel.

"Lem," said one in a strained voice, "you started to eat yours yet?"

"No," replied Lem.

"Then don't . . . I started to eat mine and I've gone blind."

Three for the Road: A woman drove me to drink, and I'll be a son-of-a-gun, but I never even wrote to thank her.

"Woman to her husband: 'I'm not overdrawn at the bank; you're underdeposited.'"

The Allen-Scott Report

Freeman Training

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman is doing a lot more than exploring the prospects of disposing of surplus farm commodities in his tour of four continents.

Also very much on his mind is getting some first-hand experience in high-level diplomacy — which may come in handy very soon.

Under current White House plans, the former Minnesota governor is slated to be the next member (fourth) to leave the Cabinet, very probably to become Ambassador to Mexico. Ambassador Thomas Mann, career diplomat since 1942, has notified the President of his desire to quit. Mann has an attractive business offer, also is not wholly in accord with administration policies in Latin America. Freeman heads an inner White House list of possible replacements.

Embarking on a diplomatic career is not a new thought with 45-year-old Freeman.

After President Kennedy's 1960 election, when Freeman was defeated for a fourth gubernatorial term, he considered seeking a State Department appointment. Instead, he was offered the Agriculture portfolio.

Close friends strongly advised him against accepting it. They warned the Department is a vast bureaucratic mine loaded with long-accumulated booby-traps that sooner or later would cause him grief. The subsequent widely-headlined Billie Sol Estes scandal is a graphic illustration of this sound counsel.

But the lure of a Cabinet job was too potent for Freeman, and he fell for it.

A series of painful setbacks — the most recent the thumping defeat in the wheat growers' referendum — has caused Freeman to have serious second thoughts about remaining in the Cabinet. Shifting to the field of diplomacy has become increasingly more appealing.

White House insiders indicate the President and Freeman have discussed this change but timing and other details are still undetermined.

The Iron Curtain trip is credited as definitely a part of the backstage plan. While Freeman is canvassing the possibility of opening markets for surplus agricultural commodities, he also is getting on-the-job training in diplomacy.

More To Go — Two other Cabinet members are destined to leave — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall and Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges.

Hodges, former Governor of North Carolina, will be the first to go. Both he and the White House have been looking for an agreeable exit for some time. Earlier this year, it looked as if this had been found when Hodges was considered for president of Rotary International. But someone else got the prize.

Udall is very eager to be Senator from Arizona, and the White House is all for it. It has been for quite a while. Udall doesn't rate high with the President.

But Udall is tightly holding on to his Cabinet office until he knows just where he will light. If Senator Barry Goldwater is the Republican presidential standard-bearer, Udall might risk running for his Senate seat. But he will never tackle him head-on.

Postoffice Scramble — Democratic National Chairman John Bailey would like very much to be the new Postmaster General. But his chances appear dim.

Bailey isn't happy at the national headquarters. He is a figurehead chairman. The committee actually is being run by young Stephen Smith, brother-in-law of the President, and Treasurer Richard Maguire, long-time Kennedy employee. Smith has no title, but he is the real boss.

Smith works very closely with the White House and Attorney General Robert Kennedy who has a personal emissary on the committee's payroll.

Bailey also is not on the best of terms with Senator Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., former Secretary of HEW. Outwardly, they are friendly, but privately they are at odds over state politics.

Being strongly pushed for Postmaster General is Peter Crotty, Buffalo, N. Y., attorney and County Democratic Chairman. Wealthy and very active for Kennedy in the 1960 campaign, Crotty has the potent backing of a group of members of the House Post Office Committee, headed by Representative Thaddeus Dulski, N. Y.

Regardless of who replaces former Postmaster General Edward Day, the inside report persists this appointment will be temporary, and a Negro will be named to the Cabinet place by next spring — before the presidential battle.

"Discrimination in reverse" to favor Negro employees is flaily charged in the latest issue of the official magazine of the 160,000-member United Federation of Postal Clerks (AFL-CIO). The union has many Negro members, but the magazine bluntly asserts Negroes were promoted to supervisory jobs in Indianapolis, Dallas and elsewhere through political influence.

"A new and dubious principle," says the journal, "for which no written warrant exists, has been added to the bag of political tricks by which the merit system is circumvented; the principle of discrimination in reverse by which a quota of promotions is seemingly based on merit but isn't."

Delaware Pollution

The Delaware River in this area and in the Philadelphia area is not a clear water stream. It is polluted by people, municipalities, businesses and by lack of sanitary controls over most of its course below Stroudsburg.

On Friday the House Subcommittee on Natural Resources and Power will hear 14 witnesses in Trenton and inspect the river basin up to Easton from the air.

Because of time limitations, they are inspecting by boat sewage treatment facilities and industries in the Philadelphia area only.

Pollution of the river is worse in that area because all of the upstream pollution is added to pollution from the heavy industrial and population areas of Philadelphia and Trenton.

But, although it is definitely cleaner in its upper regions—from Stroudsburg north along the Pennsylvania-New Jersey border—the problem of pollution is present and will grow suddenly and seriously as the Tocks Island Dam project gets under way and the Tocks Island lake area is developed.

Strong federal laws are needed to clean up and prevent river and stream pollution. It is too bad that individual states have not acted with more courage and responsibility to control pollution.

But politics and business interests, the desire of states to attract new industry and not to offend it, have all conspired against passage of strong sanitation laws and firm enforcement of the state laws we do have.

This vital area appears to be one in which local government—which we would rather depend upon—is powerless or unwilling to act. The states have not done much better.

The last resort is the federal government, which we have to turn to in default of strong local action.

It is a sad fact of American democracy today that the federal government is taking action in housing, civil rights, education—just about every problem which has not been attacked by local and state government.

We oppose that trend, but believe that important legislation should be passed in Washington if it is not passed by the states.

Stronger laws and stronger enforcement of laws are needed to clean up the rivers and streams of this area and the whole country which are getting more and more polluted.

We hope the House subcommittee comes up with some strong recommendations and that federal action is taken soon if state and local governments continue to pass the buck.

Constitutional Revision

Ground rules for a referendum on the question of calling a convention to revise the 89-year-old state constitution have been set by law passed in the recent legislature and signed by the governor Monday.

It is the sixth time the people of Pennsylvania have been asked to approve a constitutional convention since the 1874 document was adopted.

The basic ground rules are:

1. Referendum on whether to call a constitutional convention at the Nov. 5 municipal elections.

2. Convention convening in July, 1964, with a deadline of Jan. 15, 1965.

3. Election of three delegates from each state senatorial district at the May 1964, primary. There are 50 districts, and would be 150 delegates. Only two of the three district delegates could be from one party.

4. The revised constitution then goes to the voters in the November, 1965, general election for approval or rejection.

There is massive support for revision of state constitution. Most impressive names in the long list of proponents of revision are those of the last four Pennsylvania governors—two Republicans and two Democrats.

Both Republican Senator Hugh Scott and Democratic Senator Joseph S. Clark are behind it. In Monroe County, both the Democratic Club and the Young Republican Club are backing revision.

The most interested and experienced politicians—the last four governors—and many other political and non-political people believe the constitution must be rewritten.

We agree, and hope the voters will see the need for it.

Some Tough Answers

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — It is generally conceded around Capitol Hill that Pennsylvania's lawmakers have some tough answering to do.

That the now ended 1963 regular legislative session left much to be desired—notwithstanding its accomplishments—is obvious.

However one of the more ticklish and perhaps more sensitive items on which the Legislature accomplished a complete about was its failure to provide some $12,000,000 in state aid to colleges, universities and community hospitals.

This is regarded as one of the more serious veins in which lawmakers felt vain.

The state aid program in question is nothing new; rather it is one of those historically accepted programs that is almost as much a part of state government operations today as the issuance of an operator's license.

Yet oddly enough this very program on which lawmakers goofed is more of a taxpayer-tough program than the vast majority of programs that draw state augmentation!

Curiously too, this far-reaching local level program of state aid—perhaps as directly local as any—falls within the ignominious category as "non-preferred" appropriations and as such requires not simply a majority of votes in the House and Senate for clearance, but 140 in the House and 34 in the Senate.

The answer is obvious, of course; anti-administration Democratic lawmakers had no course other than to provide the necessary votes—but they refused. That's the record.

This is perhaps one of the most acute and one of the most bizarre blunders House Democrats could conceivably have made (it never got to the Senate)—one that is destined to plague them in the legislative elections next year and which as virtually no other faux pas could, may well seal their doom come 1964.

For Pennsylvania's junketeering hierarchy, it's a rather sad commentary!

Try and Stop Me --by Bennet Cerf

In Charles Price's superb book, "The World of Golf," he tells of what must be the most casual player in the history of the sport. His name is J. Wood Platt, and on the notoriously tough Pine Valley course outside Philadelphia, he began one unbelievable round with a birdie on the first hole, an eagle on the second, a hole in one on the third, and another birdie on the fourth. This left him six under par for four holes—a score probably never matched. What did Mr. Platt do at this point? He decided he had played enough that day, handed his bag of clubs to his caddy, and went to the clubhouse for a game of bridge!

A sedate couple in Indianapolis were upset when they carefully brought-up daughter, enlisted in the Peace Corps, and was assigned a post in darkest Africa. Her first letter home from that remote spot was not exactly reassuring. It began, "The people here, I must admit, are hostile, stupid, and dull. So much for the staff. Now let me tell you about the natives..."

An American tourist, arriving at Paris Orly Airport for his first visit abroad, stopped at the restaurant near the customs exit for a bite of breakfast. What an opportunity to try out the French he had studied so laboriously from a set of photo-graph records. He hailed a waiter and nervously ordered "Oeufs! Oeufs! (Eggs! Eggs!)" The waiter regarded him in disbelief, so again the American cried "Oeufs! Oeufs!"

This time the waiter permitted himself the suspicion of a smile and, in perfect English, said to the tourist, "If you'll stop barking at me, sir, I'll be happy to take your order."

An old-fashioned visitor to Miami Beach was affronted by the daring bikini worn by a girl sunning herself in the sand. "Miss," she told her, "I should think you'd look more seemly in a one-piece bathing suit."

"Okay," she answered agreeably. "Which piece would you like me to take off?"

The Allen-Scott Report

Freeman Training

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman is doing a lot more than exploring the prospects of disposing of surplus farm commodities in his tour of Iron Curtain countries.

Also very much on his mind is getting some first-hand experience in high-level diplomacy—which may come in handy very soon.

Under current White House plans, the former Minnesota governor is slated to be the next member (fourth) to leave the Cabinet, very probably to become Ambassador to Mexico. Ambassador Thomas Mann, career diplomat since 1942, has notified the President of his desire to quit. Mann has an attractive business offer, also is not wholly in accord with administration policies in Latin America. Freeman heads an inner White House list of possible replacements.

Embarking on a diplomatic career is not a new thought with 45-year-old Freeman.

After President Kennedy's 1960 election, when Freeman was defeated for a fourth gubernatorial term, he considered seeking a State Department appointment. Instead, he was offered the Agriculture portfolio.

Close friends strongly advised him against accepting it. They warned the Department is a vast bureaucratic mire loaded with long-accumulated booby-traps that sooner or later would cause him grief. The subsequent widely-headlined Billie Sol Estes scandal is a graphic illustration of this sound counsel.

But the lure of a Cabinet job was too potent for Freeman, and he fell for it.

A series of painful setbacks—the most recent the thumping defeat in the wheat growers' referendum—has caused Freeman to have serious second thoughts about remaining in the Cabinet. Shifting to the field of diplomacy has become increasingly more appealing.

White House insiders indicate the President and Freeman have discussed this change but timing and other details are still undetermined.

The Iron Curtain trip is credited as definitely a part of the backstage plan. While Freeman is canvassing the possibility of opening markets for surplus agricultural commodities, he also is getting on-the-job training in diplomacy.

More To Go—Two other Cabinet members are destined to leave—Interior Secretary Stewart Udall and Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges.

Hodges, former Governor of North Carolina, will be the first to go. Both he and the White House have been looking for an agreeable exit for some time. Earlier this year, it looked as if this had been found when Hodges was considered for president of Rotary International. But someone else got the prize.

Udall is very eager to be Senator from Arizona, and the White House is all for it. It has been for quite a while. Udall doesn't rate high with the President.

But Udall is tightly holding on to his Cabinet office until he knows just where he will light. If Senator Barry Goldwater is the Republican presidential standard-bearer, Udall might risk running for his Senate seat. But he will never tackle him head-on.

Postoffice Scramble — Democratic National Chairman John Bailey would like very much to be the new Postmaster General. But his chances appear dim.

Bailey isn't happy at the national headquarters. He is a figurehead chairman. The committee actually is being run by young Stephen Smith, brother-in-law of the President, and Treasurer Richard Maguire, long-time Kennedy employee. Smith has no title, but he is the real boss.

Smith works very closely with the White House and Attorney General Robert Kennedy who has a personal emissary on the committee's payroll.

Bailey also is not on the best of terms with Senator Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., former Secretary of HEW. Outwardly, they are friendly, but privately they are at odds over state politics.

Being strongly pushed for Postmaster General is Peter Crotty, Buffalo, N. Y., attorney and County Democratic Chairman. Wealthy and very active for Kennedy in the 1960 campaign, Crotty has the potent backing of a group of members of the House Post Office Committee, headed by Representative Thaddeus Dulski, N. Y.

Regardless of who replaces former Postmaster General Edward Day, the inside report persists this appointment will be temporary, and a Negro will be named to the Cabinet place by next spring—before the presidential battle.

The union has AFL-CIO members, but the magazine bluntly asserts Negroes were promoted to supervisory jobs in Indianapolis, Dallas and elsewhere through political influence.

"A new and dubious principle," says the journal, "for which no written warrant exists, has been added to the bag of political tricks by which the merit system is circumvented; the principle of discrimination in reverse by which a quota of promotions is seemingly based on merit but isn't."

Hitting The Clubhouse

Washington — It must often seem to the uninitiated that President Kennedy and the White House correspondents carry on verbal exchanges in code. Those not of the cognoscenti possibly think they're listening to a scramble when they overhear one of us remark to the Chief Executive, "Mr. President, you hit the clubhouse again."

"Mr. President, you hit the clubhouse again." Decoded, this bit of cryptology means:

"Mr. President, you drove a publicity ball off course again." If that doesn't make it clear, I will have to go back to the beginning. This is the nuclear reaction chain that bombed the clubhouse:

For days the White House correspondents kept after Press Secretary Pierre Salinger to release the names of members of the delegation who would accompany Secretary of State Dean Rusk to Moscow to sign the nuclear test ban treaty. Mr. Salinger kept retorting that he couldn't tell us until the President told him.

Then the White House Press Chief came out of the Presidential sanctum one morning looking as if he had just been handed a reprieve. Fondling his sesquipedalian cigar as if it were an amulet, warding off all evil, he beamed:

"The President has just told me that the names of those to accompany Dean Rusk will come from the State Department."

Every morning thereafter, and sometimes in the afternoon, Mr. Salinger repeated that the announcement would come from the State Department. Then, when he had us thoroughly relaxed, he announced it himself.

When the chaos subsided, we crowded around him again, and this exchange resulted:

"Pierre, why did you change your mind?"

"I didn't. It was changed for me."

"By whom?"

"By a higher authority."

"We didn't know there was one. Can you tell us his name?"

"I can. But I won't."

"How about just his initials?"

Mr. Salinger said he would have to cut short this 11 a.m. news-briefing because he had to leave at 4:30 p.m. for Hyannis Port.

In response to questions, he conceded the President was going too.

Next morning at Hyannis Port, Mr. Salinger went golfing with three of his erstwhile tormentors. He hit a beautiful long ball. It sailed straight as a die into the clubhouse.

Mr. Salinger was congratulated on having executed one of the most impossible shots ever driven in Hyannis Port. He was still being flattered unctuously as they came down the back nine, and encountered President Kennedy.

They encountered him on the 13th green, which he had reached in one, by driving off the 4th tee. The correspondents assured the President that a shot like that took talent, but not as much as Mr. Salinger's into the clubhouse.

At that moment, and in this momentous manner, the cipher saying was born. Since then, whenever the correspondents have been close enough to twit Mr. Kennedy about a breakdown, or mis-shot, in White House press relations, they have climaxed the exchange with the cryptic:

"Mr. President, you hit the clubhouse again."

Incidentally, the correspondents have been seeing more than usual of Mr. Kennedy of late. This is because he is a confirmed sidewalk superintendent.

Hardly a day passes that he doesn't barge into the press office so that he can stare down at the deep excavation outside the press window.

The other day he stood a full ten minutes—waving, and playing havoc with the aplomb of the workmen digging the big hole for a new White House air-conditioning system.

Officials Get Green Light On County Home Expansion

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County commissioners were notified yesterday that a federal grant of $296,435 has been approved for the construction of a 54-bed addition to the County Home in Kellersville.

Work must begin by Dec. 1. Formal notification came yesterday in a letter from Ira J. Mills, commissioner, Department of Public Welfare in Harrisburg. The letter was dated Aug. 2 and postmarked Aug. 5.

U.S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney announced July 23, during his successful campaign for Congress in the July 30 special election, that he had been advised by the Health, Education and Welfare Department in Washington that the grant for the county home had been approved.

But county officials were not notified until yesterday.

The text of Mill's letter follows:

"This is to advise you that we have today received notice that your application for participation in funds under the Accelerated Public Works Act and pursuant to the provisions of the Hill-Burton legislation has been approved for federal funds in the amount of $296,435.

"You are advised that the approval of your project is subject to the submission and approval of working drawings and specifications which conform to Appendix A and compliance with the usual Hill-Burton procedures and policies. This project must be under construction 120 days from the date of this letter, which would be December 1, 1963.

"If you are able to comply with this provision, kindly advise your architect to submit two sets of drawings in their present stage of completion to this office promptly so that an interim review of same can be made immediately.

"If no funds were set up in the hospital's budget for fiscal year 1963 for this construction, we will need three copies of a letter from you certifying this fact. This letter is required to make the project conform with certain requirements of the APW Act.

"If you are unable to meet the above requirements, kindly advise this office promptly."

Second Tad Walter

The letter from Mills was made available to The Daily Record by Leo Achtefman, county solicitor. He said, "It is my firm belief that the people in Monroe County and the 15th Congressional District are very lucky to have elected a man such as Fred Rooney as their representative in Congress. When he says something it is the truth. I believe that he is a second Tad Walter."

Harold Hinkley of Banker, Keifer and Baker, architects, said, "We have submitted the preliminary drawings and they have been approved at all levels."

He continued, "We have been working on the final drawings and they will be submitted in the immediate future. The project will be under construction on or before Dec. 1, 1963."

Commissioners' Comment

John R. Lesone, Democratic chairman of the board of commissioners, said, "We did not set up any funds in the budget this year for this construction as we were not assured by the state or Federal governments that our application would be approved."

"However, now that we have been officially notified of the grant we will pass the necessary resolutions to see that the sum of money needed is made available to the district."

Willard L. Quick, Democratic commissioner, said, "I am very pleased to hear the news of the grant. As you know I have said many times that one of my last official deeds before leaving office in January is to see the construction at the County Home underway. This is fulfilling my dream."

Quick was defeated in the primary last May.

Commissioner Stanley R. Rader, Republican, said, "I am very happy to hear the news. We need this addition very badly. With the construction we will be aiding the elderly people in the county."

ARA Assurance

Andrew Duran of the Area Redevelopment Agency, assured The Daily Record yesterday that the grant was officially approved. He pointed out that it was a part of the Accelerated Public Works program but under the Hill-Burton Act for medical facilities.

The Public Health Service section of the HEW notified Senator Fred B. Rooney that the grant had been primarily approved on July 23, according to Duran.

The same office then notified the regional office of HEW in New York. New York then notified Ira Mills in the Public Welfare Dept. in Harrisburg, and Mills notified the Monroe County Commissioners.

The delay in the official announcement, according to Miss Catherine Harrell of the New York regional HEW office, was that no official word of the grant was received from Washington until July 20, seven days after Rooney announced passage of the grant.

Mills said yesterday, "Nothing is official until they (the Monroe County commissioners) hear from me." Mills said he could not notify the commissioner until he received official written word of the grant's passage from the New York office.

According to Mills, the delay was caused by the lag between Washington's announcing it and formally notifying the New York office.

Driver Gets Manslaughter Charge In Fatal Accident

STROUDSBURG — The driver of a car which struck and fatally injured a resort worker on Route 209, seven miles east of East Stroudsburg, Tuesday night was committed to Monroe County Jail Wednesday in default of $2,000 bail on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Eric Walter Strauch, 21, who gave his address as 12 Day St., East Stroudsburg, and 812 Phillips St., Stroudsburg, was arraigned on the charge before Floyd W. Kellogg, Stroudsburg justice of the peace, he pleaded innocent.

The victim, Andrew Jackson, 29, of Newark, N.J., was employed by Oak Grove House, East Stroudsburg, RD 2. He was struck by Strauch's car at 9:55 p.m. Tuesday and died at 7:25 a.m. yesterday in Monroe County General Hospital.

State Police at Stroudsburg said the accident occurred on a straight stretch of highway about a quarter of a mile west of Alther's Inn and Motel.

Strauch was quoted by troopers as saying he struck the victim as he attempted to pass a truck and a car. Jackson was walking west on the south side of the highway and Strauch was also westbound.

Harris-Small Libel Action On Calendar

STROUDSBURG — A trespass action for libel against Mayor Joseph H. Small of Stroudsburg by former Mayor Hal H. Harris is on the trial list for the September term of Monroe County Civil Court for assessment of damage.

The suit is the result of an advertisement which appeared in The Daily Record on Nov. 4, 1961, which Small paid for and which Harris contents was "false, scandalous, malicious and defamatory" to him.

Harris, a Democrat, was candidate for mayor at the time. He lost to Small, a Republican, in the general election. The suit was filed by Atty. Kenneth Lewis of East Stroudsburg on Oct. 29, 1962, 11 months after the election.

When filed, it charged that the statement was published so close to Election Day that Harris "had insufficient time within which to undo the harm and damage done to him by the defendant before the electorate had to vote one way or the other on plaintiff's and defendant's candidacies for the same office."

It also charged that omission of Harris' name from the advertisement "in no way lessened the damage done to plaintiff," who was the only opposition candidate to Small in the election for mayor.

Small said yesterday he is being represented by the Stroudsburg law firm of Bensinger and Bensinger.

Ordinances 71 and 72 were approved. These deal with the acceptance of roads within the township.

Ordinance 71 accepts roads in the southwest part of the township. These are in the vicinity of the Reish farm. The second ordinance accepts roads between Rt. 611 and Rt. 80 near the Golden Sax.

Chief of Police H. W. Tehbs reported 13 traffic violations for the month, two false alarms at Oulick, one abandoned motor vehicle removed from township road, and three motor vehicle accidents investigated.

The supervisors approved a resolution to submit a road project of $8,329 to the county commissioners. The commissioners allocate money to the political subdivisions, in the form of county aid, from money received from the state through refund on liquid fuel taxes.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 4, at 7:30 p. m. in the township municipal building on N. Fifth St.

CRESO — One woman was injured slightly yesterday in a two-car crash on Route 191, in Cresco at 1:15 p.m. Chief of Police Harry Campbell said last night.

The injured woman was identified as Dorothea Mary of 89 Pearl St., Pittston. Campbell said the woman received several broken ribs. She was treated at the scene by a local doctor and then taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County where she was given additional treatment and released.

Campbell identified the drivers as Mary R. Mackin, 58, of 107 Grant St., Pittston, operator of the car in which Dorothea Mary was a passenger, and Stephen A. Gutheinz, 56, of 201 Willow St., Scranton.

The accident happened, Campbell said, when the Mackin car stopped to allow a truck in front of it to make a left turn and was struck from the rear by the Gutheinz vehicle.

He estimated the Gutheinz car as a total loss and damage to the Mackin vehicle at $1,000. He will continue the investigation today.

Stroudsburg Council Raises Pay Scale For Police Dept.

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Borough Council last night adopted a new pay scale for its police department, raising the starting salary for a probationary patrolman from $3,420 to $4,640 a year.

The move will also result in a raise for three men on the force with less than two years' service, since the new starting salary is higher than they now receive. Borough Manager Harold E. Snyder estimated the adjustment for the three will cost about $120 a year.

The new scale provides for pay of $4,640 to $7,711 during the first year; $5,711 to $8,900 during the second year; $8,900 to $10,000 for two to five years; $10,000 to $11,000 for five to 10 years; $11,000 to $12,000 for 10 to 15 years and $12,000 a year for each five years of service for men over 15 years.

The previous maximums were $7,700 at the end of the second year; $8,900 for two to five years; $10,000 for five to 10 years; $11,000 for 10 to 15 years and $12,000 a year for each five years of service for men over 15 years.

At the same time, council repeated its instructions to the Police Civil Service Commission to advertise for examination for the position of patrolman. The instructions, originally issued at last month's meeting, had been delayed pending a new salary schedule. The new salary schedule was recommended by the council's police committee.

Council awarded to Patsy DeMaria, Bangor, the contract to construct concrete curb on Erie and Hamilton Sts., at his bid of $2,335 a linear foot. The only other bidders were T. and R. Paving Co., Bangor, $2,723 a foot, and Charles L. Frank, Stroudsburg, $3 a foot.

Council awarded to Swank Service Co., East Stroudsburg, a contract for weed control in rip rap on the Stroudsburg side of the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg Flood Control Project on his bid of $30. The bid, the only one received, will also cover brush cutting and removal.

Council took no action on moving of the dikes of the flood control project after hearing a report that an expert's opinion is that it should not be moved for the first year or two to permit the dikes to settle.

Curb Costs Discussed

Robert Shearer of the Allen town office of the State Highway Dept. attended the meeting to discuss cost of curbing to be installed as part of the relocation of the Cherry Valley Road.

Shearer said that an original estimate of $63,511 by the department as the borough's share of the project had been "found off" to $1,000, plus a 15 percent coverage and 20 percent for inspection in the agreement submitted for council approval.

He said that, in any case, the borough would be charged only what the successful bidder for the project bids. The bids are accepted by the state.

He estimated that the borough will be responsible for paying for about 237 feet of curb and 118 feet of shoulders. Council then authorized signing of the agreement.

Council also:

Postponed action on clearing the channel of Pocono Creek within the borough pending an on-the-site inspection scheduled for later this week.

Check Fire Alarm

Authorized Fire Chief Nelson Lightner to bring in a sound engineer from Federal Sign and Signal Corp. to survey the fire siren located in the Palmer Ave. area of the borough with a view to moving it or raising it to cut complaints from residents of the area as to its volume.

Named Councilman Stephen Sackley to meet with Councilman Kenneth Wiley of East Stroudsburg and the business men's associations of both boroughs to discuss resumption of inter-borough bus service.

Tabled action on a request by Edward Padman, 846 Scott St., to pipe storm water now running through his property in an open ditch until council can inspect the site. Estimated cost of piping the water is $14,222.

Granted Clement B. Price permission to cut the curb on Lee Ave. for a driveway to a new home now under construction.

Approved a request from Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. for installation of two additional lights on the Dreher Ave. interchange of the Stroudsburg Turnpike.

Approved a change in the site of a street light at the corner of Garden St. and Greenway Ave. from 1,000 to 2,500 lumen and its relocation on another pole to provide more light at the intersection. The additional cost will be $110 a month.

He continued, "We have been working on the final drawings and they will be submitted in the immediate future. The project will be under construction on or before Dec. 1, 1963."

Commissioners Comment

John R. Lessner, Democratic chairman of the board of commissioners, said, "We did not set up any funds in the budget this year for this construction as we were not assured by the state or Federal governments that our application would be approved.

A second 15-year-old boy, also charged in the Lantz theft, was returned to juvenile quarters of Monroe County Jail pending further investigation.

Two East Stroudsburg boys, eight and nine, charged with vandalism at the home of Miss Ruth Flory in East Stroudsburg, were released in the custody of their parents. They were accused of smashing flower pots and breaking windows on the property.

Driver Gets Manslaughter Charge In Fatal Accident

STROUDSBURG — The driver of a car which struck and fatally injured a resort worker on Route 209, seven miles east of East Stroudsburg, Tuesday night was committed to Monroe County Jail Wednesday in default of $2,000 bail on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Eric Walter Strauch, 24, who gave his addresses as 12 Day St., East Stroudsburg, and 813 Phillips St., Stroudsburg, was arraigned on the charge before Floyd W. Kellogg, Stroudsburg justice of the peace. He pleaded innocent.

The victim, Andrew Jackson, 30, of Newark, N.J., "was employed by Oak Grove House, East Stroudsburg, RD 2. He was struck by Strauch's car at 9:55 p.m. Tuesday and died at 7:25 a.m. yesterday in Monroe County General Hospital.

State Police at Stroudsburg said the accident occurred on a straight stretch of highway about a quarter of a mile west of Altierr's Inn and Motel.

Strauch was quoted by troopers as saying he struck the victim as he attempted to pass a truck and a car. Jackson was walking west on the south side of the highway and Strauch was also westbound.

Council awarded to Patsy DeMaria, Bangor, the contract to construct concrete curb on Erie and Hamilton Sts., at his bid of $3,780 at the end of the second year, $3,900 for two to five years; $4,020 for five to 10 years; $4,140 for 10 to 15 years and $120 a year for each five years of service for men over 15 years.

Applications Sought

At the same time, council repeated its instructions to the Police Civil Service Commission to advertise for examination for the position of patrolman. The instructions, originally issued at last month's meeting, had been delayed pending a new salary schedule. The new salary schedule was recommended by the council's police committee.

Council awarded to Patsy DeMaria, Bangor, the contract to construct concrete curb on Erie and Hamilton Sts., at his bid of $3,780 at the end of the second year, $3,900 for two to five years; $4,020 for five to 10 years; $4,140 for 10 to 15 years and $120 a year for each five years of service for men over 15 years.

Curbing Costs Discussed

Robert Shearer of the Allentown office of the State Highways Dept. attended the meeting to discuss cost of curbing to be installed as part of the relocation of the Cherry Valley Road.

Shearer said that an original estimate of $651.51 by the department as the borough's share of the project had been "rounded off" to $1,000, plus a 15 percent coverage and 20 percent for inspection in the agreement submitted for council approval.

He said that, in any case, the borough would be charged only what the successful bidder for the project bids. The bids are accepted by the state.

He estimated that the borough will be responsible for paying for about 237 feet of curb and 118 feet of shoulders. Council then authorized signing of the agreement.

Council also:

Postponed action on clearing the channel of Pocono Creek within the borough pending an on-the-site inspection scheduled for later this week.

Check Fire Alarm

Authorized Fire Chief Nelson Lightner to bring in a sound engineer from Federal Sign and Signal Corp. to survey the fire siren located in the Fulmer Ave. area of the borough with a view to moving it or raising it to cut complaints from residents of the area as to its volume.

Named Councilman Stephen Sackley to meet with Councilman Kenneth Wiley of East Stroudsburg and the businessmen's associations of both boroughs to discuss resumption of inter-borough bus service.

Tabled action on a request by Elwood Palmer, 846 Scott St., to pipe storm water now running through his property in an open ditch until council can inspect the site. Estimated cost of piping the water is $1,422.

Granted Clement B. Price permission to cut the curb on Lee Ave. for a driveway to a new home now under construction.

Approved a request from Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. for installation of two additional lights on the Dreher Ave. interchange of the Stroudsburg Thruway.

Approved a change in the site of a street light at the corner of Garden St. and Greenway Ave. from 1,000 to 2,500 lumen and its relocation on another pole to provide more light at the intersection. The additional cost will be $1.10 a month.

Harris-Small Libel Action On Calendar

STROUDSBURG — A trespass action for libel against Mayor Joseph H. Small of Stroudsburg by former Mayor Hal H. Harris is on the trial list for the September term of Monroe County Civil Court for assessment of damage.

The suit is the result of an advertisement which appeared in The Daily Record on Nov. 4, 1961, which Small paid for and which Harris contents was "false, scandalous, malicious and defamatory" to him.

Harris, a Democrat, was candidate for mayor at the time. He lost to Small, a Republican, in the general election. The suit was filed by Atty. Kenneth Lewis of East Stroudsburg on Oct. 29, 1962, 11 months after the election.

When filed, it charged that the statement was published so close to Election Day that Harris "had insufficient time within which to undo the harm and damage done to him by the defendant before the electorate had to vote one way or the other on plaintiff's and defendant's candidacies for the same office."

It also charged that omission of Harris' name from the advertisement "in no way lessened the damage done to plaintiff," who was the only opposition candidate to Small in the election for mayor.

Small said yesterday he is being represented by the Stroudsburg law firm of Bensinger and Bensinger.

Ordinances 71 and 72 were approved. These deal with the acceptance of roads within the township.

Ordinance 71 accepts roads in the southwest part of the township. These are in the vicinity of the Reish farm. The second ordinance accepts roads between Rt. 611 and Rt. 80 near the Golden Sax.

Chief of Police H. W. Tehbs reported 13 traffic violations for the month, two false alarms at Oil-jack, one abandoned motor vehicle removed from township road, and three motor vehicle accidents investigated.

The supervisors approved a resolution to submit a road project of $8,329 to the county commissioners. The commissioners allocate money to the political sub-divisions, in the form of county aid, from money received from the state through refund on liquid fuel taxes.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 4, at 7:30 p. m. in the township municipal building on N. Fifth St.

Boys Burned By Gunpowder Explosion Still In Hospital

EAST STRODSBURG — Two Stroudsburg, RD 4, brothers were reported still in guarded condition yesterday at Monroe County General Hospital where they are being treated for gunpowder burns of the face, arms and hands.

Alan Everett and his older brother, Brian, sons of Mrs. Dolores Everett of Hamilton Square, were injured Tuesday when the gunpowder with which they were making firecrackers exploded at their home.

Greentown Women Picket White House

GREENTOWN — Two area women were among more than 40 picketers at the White House in Washington Tuesday on behalf of the controversial cancer drug, Kribiozin.

They were Mrs. Ann Mazza and Mrs. Grace Frick, both of Greentown, RD 1.

Other area residents taking part in the demonstration, sponsored by the New York-based Citizens Committee for Cancer Survivors, were Mrs. Joseph Schumacher, 630 Hickory St., Scranton; Mrs. Vicki Polonski, 1002 Carmel St., Dickson City; and Mrs. Harry Granger, Olyphant, RD 1.

Distribution of Kribiozin outside of Illinois where it is manufactured was banned July 12 by the Food and Drug Administration.

Proponents of the drug claim it prolongs the life of cancer victims and want President Kennedy to issue an executive order to permit patients formerly receiving Kribiozin to resume treatment until a full test of the drug has been made.

Baldwin Hits Harrisburg Statement

HARRISBURG (AP) — David R. Baldwin, assistant to the Democratic state treasurer, took issue Tuesday with a Scranton administration monthly financial statement and accused the Republican governor of a managed deficit during the fiscal year ended June 30.

Baldwin, budget secretary to former Democratic Gov. Louis L. Lawrence, took aim on the Office of Administration's statement Monday that state tax collections in July, the first month of the current fiscal year, were $14 million above those of a year ago.

The administration attributed the bulk of the increase to the new five per cent sales tax.

Baldwin, however, said that June tax collections at the 5 per cent rate were being received for deposit during August.

Noting that the Republican administration claimed a $11 million deficit at the end of the 1962-63 fiscal year, Baldwin said:

"A more accurate explanation of the increased revenue collections was the release of monies held by the Department of Revenue to insure a managed deficit."

"Few nations are more densely populated than Haiti."

Boys Burned By Gunpowder Explosion Still In Hospital

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two Stroudsburg, RD 4, brothers were reported still in guarded condition yesterday at Monroe County General Hospital where they are being treated for gunpowder burns of the face, arms and hands.

Alan Everett and his older brother, Brian, sons of Mrs. Dolores Everett of Hamilton Square, were injured Tuesday when the gunpowder with which they were making firecrackers exploded at their home.

Greentown Women Picket White House

GREENTOWN — Two area women were among more than 40 picketers at the White House in Washington Tuesday on behalf of the controversial cancer drug, Krebiozen.

They were Mrs. Ann Mazza and Mrs. Grace Frick, both of Greentown, RD 1.

Other area residents taking part in the demonstration, sponsored by the New York-based Citizens Committee for Cancer Survivors, were Mrs. Joseph Schumacher, 650 Hickory St., Scranton; Mrs. Vicki Potchowski, 1602 Carmel St., Dickson City, and Mrs. Harry Granger, Olyphant, RD 1.

Distribution of Krebiozen outside of Illinois where it is manufactured was banned July 12 by the Food and Drug Administration.

Proponents of the drug claim it prolongs the life of cancer victims and want President Kennedy to issue an executive order to permit patients formerly receiving Krebiozen to resume treatment until a full test of the drug has been made.

Baldwin, budget secretary to former Democratic Gov. David L. Lawrence, took aim on the Office of Administration's statement Monday that state tax collections in July, the first month of the current fiscal year, were $4.1 million above those of a year ago.

Wallenpaupack Board Hires Teachers, Sets Calendar

HAWLEY — The hiring of teachers, clerical and custodial help, and the approval of the 1962-63 school calendar highlighted the August meeting of the Wallenpaupack Area Joint School Board Monday night.

Dr. Dorothy Shenk, who formerly had charge of training teachers at Courtland College, and who has moved to this area, was hired to teach third grade at Southern Wayne School, Newfoundland. Mrs. Ann Jackson was selected to teach third and fourth grades at Hawley. Mrs. Wendel Reeder, who taught third and fourth grades at Lackawaxen, Mrs. Marie Baine will serve as secretary at Southern Wayne until the high school moves to Hawley in February, when she will have charge of the switchboard. Herman Laabs was named chief custodian of the new school, and will begin work by September 1. Mrs. Romayne Frank was hired as janitor at the Blooming Grove School, and William Frank was hired as a part-time helper in the janitorial capacity prior to the opening of school.

Walter McGinness, of Palmyra, Wayne, was elected a delegate to the Pennsylvania School Directors Legislative Council, succeeding L. Bruce Worrell, who resigned from the post.

School Calendar

School will open on Wednesday, September 4, at both Hawley and Newfoundland schools. October 14 and 15 will be holidays for students, while teachers and school directors attend institute and conventions in Honesdale. Thanksgiving recess includes November 28 and 29. The opening day of buck season on December 2, and the opening day of doe season on December 16, are both holidays for both schools. Christmas recess includes December 24-January 1.

The first semester ends on January 24, and there will be a semester break and holiday from January 27 to January 31, inclusive. The second semester, and the opening of the new school, will be Monday, February 3, 1964.

ture will be ready for bids by September 1, with the opening of bids by the third or fourth week of September. The directors approved the purchase of compartmented trays instead of dishes because of economy in the initial purchase, length of life, and ease in cleaning.

The board discussed purchase of two lawn mowers and a snow blower, but no action was taken. The recommendation of the building committee, headed by Harold Gumble, that conduits from the transformers to the mainline be run underground, was accepted by the board and will be recommended to the Authority.

Progress On New School
Fred Schoenagel, clerk of the works, reported on progress of the new school on Lake Wallenpaupack. He noted satisfactory progress with the exception of the sewage treatment plant, which was held up by labor disputes, and which threatens to hold up the other contractors.

The folding partition for the gymnasium has arrived, and is in storage until needed.

The board approved purchase of a new stove for the Blooming Grove school.

Mrs. Warren Murphy, treasurer, reported a bank balance of $57,300.63. Bills totaling $6,675.30 were ordered paid.

The directors approved the motion that there be one athletic team for the Wallenpaupack Jointure, combining the Southern Wayne and Hawley teams this year.

Mrs. Isabel Pierson was appointed elementary principal at Hawley.

The next meeting of the board was moved to September 9, because the regular meeting night falls on Labor Day. Dr. Richard Porter presided.

State Bank Assets Hit Record Peak

HARRISBURG (AP) — The resources of Pennsylvania state banks reached an all-time high of $10.2 billion during the fiscal year ended June 30, the Banking Department reported Wednesday.

"This is the first time in state history that the banking resources of the Commonwealth have gone above $10 billion," said Banking Secretary G. A. Patterson.

He attributed the record total to greatly increased deposits.

"The rate of interest is an important factor in the deposits," said Patterson.

This higher interest rate paid by domestic banks for deposits, the less flow of capital in other states or foreign institutions.

Present interest rates, said Patterson, also have stimulated large investments, such as corporations, to switch their reserve from high grade, but low interest, federal bonds and treasury notes to more liquid cash accounts.

A few months ago, shortly after Gov. Scranton's administration took office, the State Banking Department authorized commercial institutions to pay 4 per cent interest rate on deposits held more than 90 days. The regular interest rate had been 3 1/2 per cent for commercial banks. State savings banks have been authorized to pay the 4 per cent rate for some time.

The higher rate, said Patterson, was "aimed at keeping competition money in the state." Similar action at the national level was aimed at keeping U. S. dollars from flowing into foreign institutions.

The federal reserve bank recently boosted the discount rate—that's the price bankers pay to borrow money from the federal reserve—to 5 1/2 per cent.

Just Between Us—

by Bobby Westbrook

Any impression that the Povey had gone into a sleeping Beauty Mid-Summer Night's Dream was more than dispelled yesterday when the mob seemed started up again.

Whether it was the lack of a clouding over or the fact that the sun was starting to peek, or they'd run out of week-end leftovers, everybody headed for town yesterday. It was if you thought the traffic was bad at Seventh and Main, you should have seen the traffic at the Antique Show.

Fortunately, I used part of my dinner hour to check up on the state of affairs so it wasn't too crowded. But the hostesses were looking a little dazed by what they'd been through, and the kitchen crew had been working ten times as hard as they would have in a full day at home.

I never cease to be amazed at what are now considered antiques. Cradles, spinning wheels, whale oil lamps, dry sinks—sure, they're antiques to me, but not, for goodness sake, things I remember from my own childhood. Not even a kitchen sink and a flowered lamp shades, and glass bowls and china dolls!

When, in your lifetime, familiar every day things become antiques, you can pretty well bet that you're getting on the antique side yourself. The funny thing is that the shabby furniture of which you are inclined to be ashamed today may well be the collector's prize of tomorrow.

I can well remember how relieved we were to see the last of the "mission" furniture. Remember those heavy box-like pieces with leather backs fastened on by brass nail heads? I still think they were clumsy and quite ugly, but the day may come when they'll be the roll-top desk—will be back in favor.

All you need is a big attic in a stout will to resist change, and a long life, and you'd probably have yourself an Antique Show all your own.

Meanwhile I was fascinated at the head apple dolls, the antique jewelry, including not all things quite a few perfect, attendance pass from Sunday school, a collection of a dozen that I might have been used by Gail's wife, and all the paraphernalia of yesterday.

With Sidewalk Days opening today, we really are going nuts all over the place. Except there are a lot more of us.

Record Crowds Jam Antique Show Opening

East Stroudsburg—With a line-up that looked like opening day of a World Series, the Pocono Mountains Antiques Show opened the doors of the gymnasium at East Stroudsburg State College early to relieve the pressure in the lobby.

By 3 p.m. more than 500 people had visited the show and the pace continued through until 10 last night in the largest opening day of the show, now in its 19th year under the sponsorship of the General Hospital Auxiliary.

Members of the auxiliary were out in full force. With floral nametags they served as guides from the floor of the show, and, best of all, staffed the snack bar. With sandwiches, platters, homemade cakes and pies, and beverages they were doing a brisk business. Girl Scouts assisted in clearing tables which had been set up in one corner of the lobby.

The show itself, featuring exhibits by 40 dealers from seven states, is also an outstanding one this year. The dealers have brought more elaborate set-ups, permitting a better display of their wares. The auxiliary has purchased new lighting arrangements which also shows off the antiques to better advantage.

China and glass, favorite items for collecting, especially benefit from the new lighting, featuring cut glass, pressed glass, Sandwich, Stiegel, and other famous glass items as well as ironstone, majolica, Staffordshire, Dresden, Gaudy Welsh, Haviland, Limoges and satin.

There is also a wide range of furniture, books, coins, jewelry, silver, quilts, trunks, dolls, toys, ironware, pictures, old prints, and other collectors' items.

The show, held for the benefit of the auxiliary's pledge to the General Hospital Building Fund, will continue today and tomorrow 1 to 10 p.m.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

I've heard it said there's nothing new under the sun. Maybe so... but there's something new under the rain!—"fur fabric" umbrellas, or cases in which to slip a plain umbrella.

The glamour fashion magazines are, of course, playing up furs and fur fabrics for the cooler months ahead. Genuine fur is smart, as ever... but equally chic are the fabrics such as Brazotta, to be found in our Coat Department. These actually have a soft, hairy texture, and are amazingly real. They are durable too, and should be given the same care one would give a treasured fur. Some of them are collared in mink or fox.

Other fur fabrics, just as striking but very obviously fake, are the pony, calf, and caracul to be found in little girls coats and jackets, and in women's lounging and "at home" apparel. The leopard fabric so popular a few years ago is playing a command re-appearance in the Millinery Department, and there are lingerie items, head scarfs, and dozens of accessories to be had of silks, nylons, and sheers imprinted with ocelot and leopard design.

Calf, zebra, leopard, and ocelot can all be found in the umbrella department, priced at 5.00 and 5.98. What with monkey fur being used as trim on hats and dresses, skunk being used to face jacket hoods, and all of those giddy "make believes," it looks as though the world is NOT going to the dogs THIS year... just to the zoo.

"Here's a story that may interest you," a pretty, dark-eyed young woman commented as she paused at my office door. "Our family just returned from vacation, and since I always buy so much at Wyckoff's I decided it might be fun to select a set of dishes away from home. I found exactly what I wanted in a Vermont store, but our car is small and was so crowded with four people and their luggage, we paid to have the parcel shipped.

"But here's the part that hurts: I came into Wyckoff's today and found the exact same thing in Mary Hitesman's department for less than I paid. A butter dish in Vermont was 2.98. Here it is 2.19. We have nearly three additional dollars tied up in shipping costs, and the dishes haven't even arrived yet! I'm sick about it... and wait until my husband finds out! Don't let anyone tell me about the joys of shopping out of town."

This is one of many similar stories that come to me during the course of the year. I only hope that, when the dishes arrive, there has been no breakage. Clearing up such a problem by mail can be pretty frustrating sometimes.

My visitor told me of some happier moments from her vacation too. She was particularly impressed with the museum at Shelburne, Vermont, where countless buildings (including a horseshoe-shaped barn) house thousands of interesting items: scores of old dolls, quilts, wagons, carriages, and accessories of a bygone day. The museum sounds enormous, and one could spend days exploring its treasures. Wish I could go tomorrow!

Just Between Us—

by Bobby Westbrook

Any impression that the Pocos had gone into a Sleeping Beauty Mid-Summer Night's Dream was more than dispelled yesterday when the mob scenes started up again.

Whether it was the skies clouding over or the fact that the sunburn was starting to peel, or they'd run out of week-end leftovers, everybody headed for town yesterday. But if you thought the traffic was bad at Seventh and Main, you should have seen the traffic at the Antique Show.

Fortunately, I used part of my dinner hour to check up on the state of affairs so it wasn't that crowded. But the hostesses were looking a little dazed by what they'd been through, and the leichen crew had been working ten times as hard as they would have in a full day at home.

I never cease to be amazed at what are now considered antiques. Cradles, spinning wheels, whale oil lamps, dry sinks — yes, they're antiques to me, too. But not, for goodness sake, things I remember from my own childhood. Not a doll scuttles and flowered lampshades, cut glass bowls and china dolls!

When, in your lifetime, familiar every-day things become antiques, you can pretty well bet that you're getting on the antique side yourself. The funny thing is that the shabby furniture of which you are inclined to be ashamed today may well be the collectors prize of tomorrow.

I can well remember how relieved we were to see the last of the "mission" furniture. Remember those heavy box-like pieces with leather backs fastened on by brass nail-heads? I still think they were clumsy and quite ugly, but the day may come when they — and the roll-top desk — will be back in favor.

All you need is a big attic or a stout will to resist change, and a long life, and you'd probably have yourself an Antique Show all your own.

Meanwhile, I was fascinated at the dried apple dolls; the antique jewelry, including (of all things) quite a few perfect attendance pins from Sunday school; a rolling pin of a girl that it might have been used by Goliath's wife, and all the paraphernalia of yesterday.

With Sidewalk Days opening today, we really are going nosed all over the place. Except there are a lot more of us.

Miss Sandra Keller Bride Of Tony Gallagher Here

East Stroudsburg—Miss Sandra Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Eilber, of 239 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, became the bride of Tony Gallagher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Gallagher, Sr., of South Crystal St., East Stroudsburg, in a double ring ceremony at the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Rev. Louis Johnson performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a navy blue dress with white accessories. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Martha Simmons, as maid of honor, wore a powder blue dress with pink accessories and carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Jerry Haugh served as best man for his cousin.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

The bridegroom's mother wore a black and white print dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Shirley Miller, step-sister of the bride, and her children of New Jersey; Mrs. Kay Chopak and daughter, Carol and Mrs. Catherine Jones and son, George, of Wilkes-Barre.

The organist played "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly" and the wedding march. As the couple knelt at the altar, the Lord's Prayer was said.

A reception for 80 guests was held at the Minisink Hills Hall which was decorated with white wedding bells and streamers. The bride's table was decorated with a four-tier wedding cake and white candles.

Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher are making their home in Mount Pocono.

By 3 p. m. more than 500 people had visited the show and the pace continued through until 10 last night in the biggest opening day of the show, now in its 19th year under the sponsorship of the General Hospital Aux.

Members of the auxiliary were out in full force. With floral nametags they served as registrars at the desk, as hostesses on the floor of the show, and, busiest of all, staffed the snack bar.

With sandwiches, platters, home-made cakes and pies, and beverages they were doing a brisk business. Girl Scouts assisted in clearing tables which had been set up in one corner of the lobby.

The show itself, featuring exhibits by 40 dealers from seven states, is also an outstanding one this year. The dealers have brought more elaborate set-ups, permitting a better display of their wares. The auxiliary has purchased new lighting arrangements which also shows off the antiques to better advantage.

China and glass, favorite items for collecting, especially benefit from the new lighting, featuring cut glass, pressed glass, Sandwich, Stiegel, and other famous glass items as well as ironstone, majolica, Staffordshire, Dresden, Gaudy Welsh, Haviland, Limoges and satin.

There is also a wide range of furniture, books, coins, jewelry, silver, quilts, trunks, dolls, toys, ironware, pictures, old prints, and other collectors' items.

The show, held for the benefit of the auxiliary's pledge to the General Hospital Building Fund, will continue today and tomorrow 1 to 10 p. m.

502 Main Street Stroudsburg

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

I've heard it said there's nothing new under the sun. Maybe so... but there's something new under the rain!—"fur fabric" umbrellas, or cases in which to slip a plain umbrella.

The glamour fashion magazines are, of course, playing up furs and fur fabrics for the cooler months ahead. Genuine fur is smart, as ever... but equally chic are the fabrics such as Brazotta, to be found in our Coat Department. These actually have a soft, hairy texture, and are amazingly real. They are durable too, and should be given the same care one would give a treasured fur. Some of them are collared in mink or fox.

Other fur fabrics, just as striking but very obviously fake, are the pony, calf, and caracul to be found in little girls coats and jackets, and in women's lounging and "at home" apparel. The leopard fabric so popular a few years ago is playing a command re-appearance in the Millinery Department, and there are lingerie items, head scarfs, and dozens of accessories to be had of silks, nylons, and sheers imprinted with ocelot and leopard design.

Calf, zebra, leopard, and ocelot can all be found in the umbrella department, priced at 5.00 and 5.98. What with monkey fur being used as trim on hats and dresses, skunk being used to face jacket hoods, and all of those giddy "make believes," it looks as though the world is NOT going to the dogs THIS year... just to the zoo.

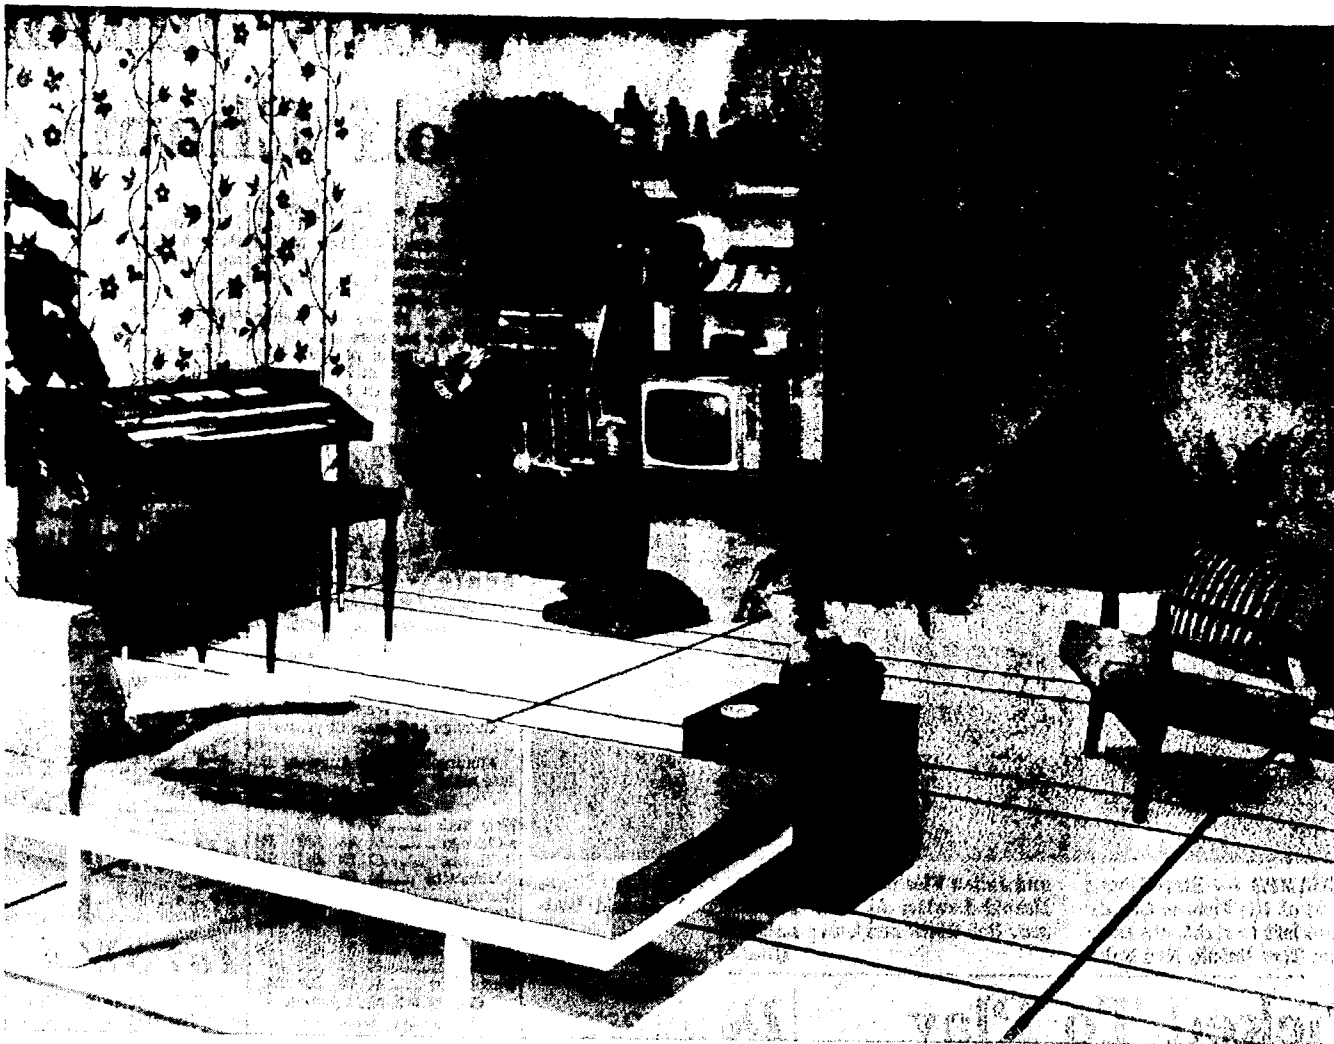

"Here's a story that may interest you," a pretty, dark-eyed young woman commented as she paused at my office door. "Our family just returned from vacation, and since I always buy so much at Wyckoff's I decided it might be fun to select a set of dishes away from home. I found exactly what I wanted in a Vermont store, but our car is small and was so crowded with four people and their luggage, we paid to have the parcel shipped.

"But here's the part that hurts: I came into Wyckoff's today and found the exact same thing in Mary Hitesman's department for less than I paid. A butter dish in Vermont was 2.98. Here it is 2.19. We have nearly three additional dollars tied up in shipping costs, and the dishes haven't even arrived yet! I'm sick about it... and wait until my husband finds out! Don't let anyone tell me about the joys of shopping out of town."

This is one of many similar stories that come to me during the course of the year. I only hope that, when the dishes arrive, there has been no brakage. Clearing up such a problem by mail can be pretty frustrating sometimes.

My visitor told me of some happier moments from her vacation too. She was particularly impressed with the museum at Shelburne, Vermont, where countless buildings (including a horseshoe-shaped barn) house thousands of interesting items: scores of old dolls, quilts, wagons, carriages, and accessories of a bygone day. The museum sounds enormous, and one could spend days exploring its treasures. Wish I could go tomorrow!

DESIGN FOR RELAXATION — With all the ingredients for pleasurable living, this gay-colored room makes a place to entertain guests, or for youngsters to bring friends to watch TV or listen to records. The grouping on the left creates a musical corner. The contemporary green-covered couch is light in weight and easily pushed aside to make room for dancing. The prefabricated fireplace in Chinese red is a companionable accent, and the room is pulled together by the white vinyl asbestos tile floor in textured mosaic pattern. It was designed by Emily Malino, A.I.D., interior decorated, for year-round use.

Marriage Can Wait For Maturity, Brandon Argues

By Vivian Brown
(AP Newsfeatures Writer)

Many people congratulate Brandon de Wilde on his forthcoming marriage. But the 21-year-old movie actor finds their good wishes premature and irritating, because he has no intention of rushing into marriage.

"Yes, I've found the girl, but we don't plan to be married until a year or more. We'll know each other three years. Then, maybe well enough to have a lasting marriage," he says.

That may sound old-fashioned, says Brandon, but he thinks he had confirmation that it isn't while completing his six-month Army program at Ft. Dix.

"Five kids in basic training went home to be married. Two were divorced in three months. One fellow said, 'Well, I don't like her, she says she doesn't like me, so I don't know why we even got married.' That's one reason I think people should wait."

Brandon is on the road to being a nearly perfect husband. He has every penny he has earned since he started in the movies at 7 (due to his parents' investments), he loves to work around the house, painting and decorating, and he likes to cook because his parents "are the greatest cooks in the world," he says, and if he gets stuck he can borrow one of their 500 cookbooks.

Brandon used to get far from with his dad, he says, because he was on such a skimpy allowance. Last year, just before he came into his trust fund, and while he was making his newest picture "Hud," his father grudgingly let him have his own check book and a car, predicting that "we've saved all this money for you, and now you'll squander it."

But after being on his own, he signed back care of the trust fund, so that his parents, and even got married. That's one reason I think people should wait. They did a swell job, and I want them to continue," he says.

He doesn't like nightclubs, or some kind of national curve anything like that, he points, average of something and some-out and he is beginning to make times. It came to some crazy some wise investments him-off. figure like $1937, I used to say, particularly for his New York. Look Dad, the average person apartment.

"I've been getting some wrong-ing in this business and all but I've bought a $230 gold carpet three about money. I'd go to for $100. I'm painting the wall Mon for some, but then Dad white above the mahogany door would have a fit. Now I know in the living room, and the of they weren't rightwards. Just feet is great," he says, proudly, looking out for my own good. Up until 19 his allowance ran as all parents should, I hope to from $5 to about $25. "give my own children that kind "Dad used to figure it on of guidance."

To Succeed As An Inventor You Must Meet Definite Need

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

A favorite question among readers is: "I've got an idea for an invention. But I don't know how to get it started and get it on the road. Can you publish some pointers on this?"

To dig up practical pointers we made it our point to interview soft-voiced, grey-haired Maury Medwick, an inventor who has marketed more than 400 of his inventions and whose modesty betrays the fact that they've also made a fortune.

Boyhood Interest

All through his boyhood, Medwick told us, he was interested in a lot of things and had the ambition to work hard at creating and making whatever he needed and couldn't afford.

As A Boy He Made Things He Wanted But Couldn't Buy

As he grew older he continued creating and making things. At the same time he worked hard at various jobs during the day while he got his college education at night.

Inventive Career

Ultimately, although he'd planned to be an artist, all that he'd learned from years of making and creating things, the knowledge and background he'd absorbed from college and studying and dabbling on his own and the practical experience he'd gained in various jobs joined forces and pointed the way to a career in invention.

Actually, Medwick's career as an inventor got its real start in World War II when he filled a need by learning to make a rubber heel without rubber.

Divers Inventions

Since then, among his 400 inventions have been such things as adhesive for giving a contact lens to sharks' eyes for U. S. Navy Research, a duplicator of dinosaur bones that can't be distinguished from the real thing for the Harvard Museum, box-making machinery, non-skid rugs and, recently, a family of chemical substances that melt in minutes into pieces of synthetic gold, jade, ivory, marble and other precious elements.

"To get an idea for an invention off to a good start," he said, "you have to be sure someone has a need for what you want to invent and that you have the ability to keep working at it until you've created something better than anybody else has already created."

"When you've succeeded at that, go to a patent attorney and file for a patent."

"And after you have the patent, how can you get the invention on the road?" we prodded.

Just An Example

"As one example, let's take my boxmaking machinery," he said helpfully.

"After I invented and patented it, I went to my local library and asked for a directory of box manufacturers all over the country. Then I wrote each one and told them I had a patented invention which would save them money and produce a better box faster."

To Succeed As An Inventor You Must Meet Definite Need

By Roberta Fleming Roesch
A favorite question among readers is: "I've got an idea for an invention. But I don't know how to get it started and get it on the road. Can you publish some pointers on this?"

To dig up practical pointers we made it our point to interview soft-voiced, grey-haired Maury Medwick, an inventor who has marketed more than 400 of his inventions and whose modesty betrays the fact that they've also made a fortune.

Boyhood Interest
All through his boyhood, Medwick told us, he was interested in a lot of things and had the ambition to work hard at creating and making whatever he needed and couldn't afford.

As A Boy He Made Things He Wanted But Couldn't Buy

As he grew older he continued creating and making things. At the same time he worked hard at various jobs during the day while he got his college education at night.

Inventive Career
Ultimately, although he'd planned to be an artist, all that he'd learned from years of making and creating things, the knowledge and background he'd absorbed from college and studying and dabbling on his own and the practical experience he'd gained in various jobs joined forces and pointed the way to a career in invention.

Actually, Medwick's career as an inventor got its real start in World War II when he filled a need by learning to make a rubber heel without rubber.

Divers Inventions
Since then, among his 400 inventions have been such things as adhesive for gluing a contact lens to sharks' eyes for U. S. Navy Research, duplicates of dinosaur bones that can't be distinguished from the real thing for the Harvard Museum, box-making machinery, non-skid rugs and, recently, a family of chemical substances that mold in minutes into pieces of synthetic gold, jade, ivory, marble and other precious elements.

"To get an idea for an invention off to a good start," he said "you have to be sure someone has a need for what you want to invent and that you have the ability to keep working at it until you've created something better than anybody else has already created."

Just An Example
"As one example, let's take my boxmaking machinery," he said helpfully.

"After I invented and patented it, I went to my local library and asked for a directory of box manufacturers all over the country. Then I wrote each one and told them I had a patented invention which would save them money and produce a better box faster.

Marriage Can Wait For Maturity, Brandon Argues

By Vivian Brown
(AP Newsfeatures Writer)

Many people congratulate Brandon de Wilde on a forthcoming marriage. But the 21-year-old movie actor finds their good wishes premature and irritating, because he has no intention of rushing into marriage.

"Yes, I've found the girl, but we don't plan to be married until a year or more. We'll know each other three years then, maybe well enough to have a lasting marriage," he says.

That may sound old-fashioned, says Brandon, but he thinks he had confirmation that it isn't while completing his six-months Army program at Ft. Dix.

"Five kids in basic training went home to be married. Two were divorced in three months. One fellow said, 'Well, I don't like her, she says she doesn't like me, so I don't know why we even got married.' That's one reason I think people should wait."

Brandon is on the road to being a nearly perfect husband. He has every penny he has earned since he started in the movies at 7 (due to his parents' investments), he loves to work around the house—painting and decorating, and he likes to cook because his parents "are the greatest cooks in the world," he says, and if he gets stuck he can borrow one of their 500 cookbooks.

Brandon used to get furious with his dad, he says, because he was on such a skimpy allowance. Last year, just before he came into his trust fund, and while he was making his newest picture "Hud," his father grudgingly let him have his own check book and a car, predicting that "we've saved all this money for you, and now you'll squander it."

But after being on his own, he signed back care of the trust fund so that his parents and their attorney could continue to manage it. "They did a swell job, and I want them to continue," he says.

He doesn't like nightclubs, or some kind of national curve anything like that, he points out and he is beginning to make some wise investments himself, particularly for his New York apartment.

"I've been getting some wonderful furniture on sale, and I just bought a $239 gold carpet for $109. I'm painting the wall white above the mahogany dado in the living room, and the effect is great," he says, proudly. Up until 19 his allowance ran from $5 to about $25.

Grid Story Seen Libelous

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal judge termed as libelous Wednesday a Saturday Evening Post story that prompted Wally Butts, former University of Georgia football coach, to sue the publisher of the magazine for $10 million.

U.S. Dist. Judge Louis R. Morgan refused to direct a verdict in favor of Butts but said he would charge the jury that the article "is libelous per se," or as it stands.

The judge added: "I think the defendant (Curtis Publishing Co.) has the burden of proving the libel was true and it is up to the jury to decide."

Morgan made the statements after attorneys for Butts moved for a directed verdict. The motion by Butts' counsel came immediately after their defense in a surprise stop after less than three days of testimony.

Allen Lockman, attorney for Butts, argued that Curtis had failed to prove charges in the Post article, which said Butts and Coach Paul Bryant of Alabama rigged the 1962 game between their schools.

Before the defense concluded its case, a Georgia coach testified that if Alabama's football team had secret information about Georgia plays, it was not apparent in their 1962 game.

Asst. Coach Leroy Pearce, narrating game films for the jury, testified that the films gave no indication that Alabama was relying on data allegedly received from Wally Butts, former Georgia athletic director.

Pearce was the third Georgia coach to take the stand in the trial of Butts' $10-million libel suit against Curtis Publishing Co. He sued because of an article in the Curtis-owned Saturday Evening Post.

The Post in its March 23 issue charged that Butts fed data on Georgia to Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama prior to the 1962 game.

"I think they ran anywhere they wanted to," was Pearce's reply when asked if it appeared that Alabama shunned one Georgia tackle.

The tackle, Ray Rasmiller, allegedly was described as "greatest in history" in notes which an Atlanta insurance salesman said he took while listening to a Butts-Bryant telephone conversation.

Strange Fight Setting

IBADAN, NIG. (AP)—In the strangest setting yet devised for a world championship fight, Gene Fulmer and Dick Tiger will do battle here Saturday for the mid-dleweight crown.

The 15-round bout starts at 7:30 p.m., local time, which is 1:30 p.m., EST. A crowd of 45,000 is expected to pack Liberty Stadium, Tiger, who took the crown from Fulmer in San Francisco Oct. 23, 1962, and then fought a draw with him last Feb. 23 in Las Vegas, is the favorite.

Tiger is the hero of Nigeria, one of the new African nations, and the Nigerian government itself is subsidizing the promotion of the fight. Tiger has been assured $100,000, and Fulmer, who comes from West Jordan, Utah, has been guaranteed $50,000.

The two strong 160-pounders have finished their hard workouts and are now tapering off in preparation for the third ring encounter.

Colorful costume

Already the curious fans are drifting in to Ibadan, which is 89 miles inland from the seaport capital of Lagos. Colorful tribal costumes are mixed with smart European attire and the huge crowd Saturday night should take on a varied and almost improbable aspect.

Grave concern is felt for what might happen on the two twisting roads that link Ibadan and Lagos. They were never designed for heavy traffic, and as this is a rainy season both roads are often blocked for days at a time by standing water. Even now there is 18 inches of water in spots on the main road, and direct Lagos-Ibadan rail traffic has been halted until further notice.

And then there are Manny wagons—large trucks with benches for freight, passengers, and livestock, usually carried simultaneously. They are slow moving, but a menace to all other vehicles.

Government officials are worried. One said: "There could be bodies all over the place, and I do not mean Tiger or Fulmer."

Jack Solomon, the London promoter who is master-minding this extravaganza, said more than 15,000 police have been ordered to patrol the two roads. This may not be enough.

Bisbing Picked To Play In Yankee Stadium Game

By BOB CLARK
Daily Record City Editor
STROUDSBURG — A very small percentage of the nation's youth ever gets the opportunity to dig spikes in Yankee Stadium. Come Monday, though, Monroe County will have a 16-year-old athlete cavorting around the House Ruth Bull.

The lucky lad is Glenn Bisbing, Stroud Union High School senior and three-sport standout at the West Main St. institution.

Bisbing was selected yesterday to play with the Eastern American Legion All-Stars against a star-studded Metropolitan area aggregation Monday morning at New York's world-famous stadium.

Despite his youth, Glenn is no novice to the diamond world.

The steller Mountaineer athlete was a stickout in the Stroudsburg Little League for five years. Starting at eight years of age, Bisbing worked his way on to two local all-star teams and established a season mark with 16 home runs.

It was no different in Babe Ruth League baseball. Three years Glen performed on local diamonds and three years he was named to the circuit's all-star outfit.

Bisbing has been playing high school ball for three seasons and has compiled a .350 batting average during that period.

Incidentally, Glenn is one of the better students academically at Stroud Union.

Bisbing and his Eastern Stars mates will journey to New York City Sunday, stay overnight in a Gotham hotel and get ready for the game which starts at 9 a.m. Monday in the 72,000-seat stadium.

Young Bisbing is excited about the new venture. One thing the Stroudsburg resident knows, scores of major league scouts will be in the stands.

Also setting his feet on the ground that once threw up dirt at "The Babe," Lou Gehrig, Lefty Gomez, Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and other diamond greats was enough to move the heart beat faster.

His father, Elder Glenn, a man who taken a keen interest in youngsters all his life, is in clouds.

"Just imagine a youngster having the opportunity to go to Yankee Stadium let alone be a member of a team that will play there," he exclaimed.

Glenn is on a roster composed of 25 players and there is a distant possibility that he may not see game action. But he will work out before the scouts and, of course, race across the same terra firma that baseball's immortals covered not too long ago.

Also he will be in the same dugout that housed the visiting team greats.

On Monday, Glenn Bisbing Jr. will be one of the small percentage of the United States youth who got the opportunity to dig spikes in Yankee Stadium.

Dodgers Nip Cubs In 11th

CHICAGO (AP) — Tommy Davis' 11th inning leadoff homer on the first pitch by reliever Lindy McDaniel led league-leading Los Angeles to a 3-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday, but Sandy Koufax failed in his bid for his 19th victory and 11th shutout of the year.

Ron Perranoski relieved Koufax for the Dodgers in the 10th—when Koufax was two outs away from victory—and received credit for winning the game.

Tommy Davis hit McDaniel's first pitch onto the left field catwalk for his 10th home run of the year. The Dodgers added an insurance run when Willie Davis beat out an infield single, stole second, went to third on a single by Al Ferrara and scored on a fly ball by Merv Breeding.

Kaline HR Leads Tigers Past Bosox

DETROIT (AP) — Al Kaline greeted relief ace Dick Radatz with the three-run homer and lifted the Detroit Tigers to a 5-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox in a home run battle Wednesday.

The Tigers established a major league record by playing their 12th straight game without making an error. Cincinnati set the former record in 1963.

Radatz, invincible for nearly three months, was shelled for the third straight time and suffered his second loss in five days.

He entered the game in the seventh with two Tigers on base and Kaline smashed his third pitch into the left field seats.

Gus Triandos hit a homer for Detroit.

Koufax Best But Spahn Comparison Is Premature

SANDY Koufax is on his way to his best season in baseball and already he is being called the best pitcher in the game. The ace southpaw of the Los Angeles Dodgers has yet to win 20 decisions in one year but he figures to make it this year.

However, comparing the 27-year-old Brooklyn native with Warren Spahn, the brilliant southpaw with the Milwaukee Braves, is somewhat premature. Koufax began this season with a 68-60 record, Spahn with 327-200.

Those experts who mention Koufax in the same breath with Spahn are about nine years premature. Spahn has 17 seasons — 12 of them 20-victory years — behind him. Koufax has pitched only eight seasons.

In his last 10 campaigns, Spahn has won 20 games or more on eight occasions. But for the fact that Milwaukee finished fifth last year Spahn might have improved on his 18 victories.

Spahn had 13 wins this year until a sore arm sidelined him. Koufax has notched 18 victories thus far. Included also are 10 shutouts.

Koufax got his first win at 19. Spahn didn't win his first game in the National League until he was 25. At age 25, Koufax had already won 28. What the experts mean is that Koufax has a good start to become the winningest southpaw in baseball history, a feat Spahn achieved sometime ago.

In 1937 when Spahn won the Cy Young Award, meaning baseball's best pitcher for the season, Koufax was throwing baseballs over the backstop. It took him time to develop control.

But the Koufax of today is the pitcher the Dodgers needed last season. They practically played the last half without him after Sandy came up with a numb index finger on his pitching hand. Still, the handsome bachelor, who was scouted by Cliff Hamilton, Walt Alston's brother-in-law, in Cincinnati, has turned in some amazing pitching performances this season.

Koufax is baseball's new strike-out phenom and this season has learned that every pitch need not be his fast ball. The 6-foot-2 lefty has developed a brilliant curve and a change up that makes Rip Sewell's old blooper pitch look like something out of grade school. Koufax's change "falls off the table" and his low fast ball rises.

On July 12 when Koufax turned in his ninth shutout of the season it marked his 15th victory against three defeats and lowered his

Satch Finds Ball Tour Expensive

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Old Satchell Paige, at the age of 57, has discovered that a baseball tour can be expensive—especially when you lose contact with your booking agent.

Paige missed four exhibition dates in British Columbia last week, bookings he needed to help cover expenses. While promoters in the towns of Kimberly, Kelowna and Kamloops were waiting for the veteran pitcher and his all-stars, Paige was sitting in Moose Jaw, Sask.

Paige was supposed to have appeared Sunday at Vancouver. The promoters called the pitcher's agent, Ken Howarth at South Beloit, Ill., and asked where Paige was.

Howarth told the promoters he was shocked at Paige's disappearance.

When they finally located Satch at Moose Jaw, more than 1,000 miles away, he was just as shocked at his agent.

He said he never heard of Kimberly, Kelowna or Kamloops and hadn't received any copy of his schedule. Paige claimed he has been "just settin'" in Moose Jaw in the heat for two or three days.

He complained that Moose Jaw was "a heck of a place to get stuck in—specially for us poor folks."

The citizens of Moose Jaw, however, find it hard to believe that Paige is in serious trouble. He's still driving an airconditioned Cadillac.

Who Fired Baseball At Plane?

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Capt. Ronald T. Reuther, Indiana National Guard flyer, had a stray baseball yesterday—but nobody claimed it.

"I'm on my final approach to Stout Field," the pilot said. "When this baseball comes flying through my windshield."

The ball broke the sun visor on his helmet and put a few scratches on his face.

Capt. Reuther's approach Saturday was over the Southwest Indianapolis Pony League diamond where two games were played.

Mrs. C. Martell, secretary treasurer of the league, said she was told that a boy threw a baseball at the plane.

"Nobody is saying who threw it," she added. "The planes sometimes come in about 10 feet over the backstop—right at the pitcher."

She didn't say whether she would talk to major league scouts, who ought to be interested.

Reuther thought he was 200 to 250 feet above the diamond and flying about 75 miles an hour.

Fight Manager Dead At 74

BOSTON (AP)—Johnny Buckley, one of the last of the vanishing breed of oldtime fight managers and the man who guided Jack Sharkey, Lou Brouillard and Paul Pender to world boxing titles, died Tuesday.

Buckley, who was 74, had been ill for several months before he died in St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

His last fight of prominence was the bout which brought Pender the world middleweight championship. He steered the former Brookline fireman from obscurity to a title fight with Sugar Ray Robinson in 1960.

Full Duty Far Away For Mantle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mickey Mantle, who returned to partial action with the New York Yankees Sunday, won't be ready for full duty for some time and still faces the possibility of postseason surgery.

"I still can't play," Mantle said Monday. "I hope maybe in a week I'll be able to. But I don't know."

"I don't think my knee is going to be as bad as we thought. It's my fault. My foot hurts, so I have to run on the side of it. I think that's what makes my knee bad. After my foot's well, I think I can run without my knee hurting. I mean I hope so."

Mantle had been out of action for 61 games since breaking a bone in his left foot at Baltimore June 5. He made his return as a pinchrunner Sunday, blasting a home run into the Yankee Stadium left field bleachers that tied the game 10-10 in the seventh inning. The Yankees went on to salvage the second game of the doubleheader with Baltimore 11-10 in 10 innings.

Mantle, who broke his foot while chasing a fly ball, later was found to have a loose cartilage in his left knee. That ailment is the one now keeping him from full duty and still lurks as a possible target of post-season surgery. It is just a possibility, Mantle said. Yankee Manager Ralph Houk confirmed that Mantle will be limited to pinch hitting duties in the immediate future.

Hannum New 'Frisco Coach

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors named Alex Hannum yesterday as head coach.

Hannum coached the Syracuse Nationals in the National Basketball Association the past three seasons.

Engel Not Planning To Quit Baseball

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A lot of minor leagues have come and gone in the past 50 years, but big, bouncy Joe (Mr. Baseball) Engel seems to go on forever.

Now a bunch of the boys are whooping it up for Joe, the "Barnum of the bush leagues" for his flamboyant, attendance-boosting promotions. The once-gave-away-a-house-and-lot, to recognize his 50 years in organized ball.

Probably no minor league official, with the possible exception of the late George Trautman, is better known to baseball buffs in high and low places.

Engel, general manager of the Chattanooga Lookouts since 1930, is now 70, but he said yesterday he has no thought of leaving the game he joined as a pitcher with the old Washington Senators in 1912.

Palmer Top Money Earner

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Jack Rade Jr. collected $5,200 in winning last weekend's St. Paul Open Golf Tournament, but Arnold Palmer's status as the top pro golf money earner was not disturbed.

Palmer, with $76,505 for 17 tournaments this year, was still well ahead of Jack Nicklaus, the No. 2 winner at $79,500.

Fullmer Winds Up Training

IADAN, Nigeria (AP)—Rayway Gene Fullmer finished heavy training yesterday for his title fight with middleweight champion Dick Tiger Saturday by boxing three spirited rounds with Molo Savage, his Utah sparring partner. Some 300 fans cheered the American challenger after the workout.

The former champion from West Jordan, Utah, and Tiger, the pride and joy of Nigeria, will meet for the third time in a 15-round bout at Ibadan's Liberty Stadium on Saturday. Tiger, a 196-pound freshman, his height was 6'5".

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Tackle Chuck Sieminski, who weighed 250 pounds in 1962, in senior year at Penn State, reported to campus as a 196-pound freshman. His height was 6'5".

Koufax's change "falls off the table" and his low fast ball rises.

On July 12 when Koufax turned in his ninth shutout of the season it marked his 15th victory against three defeats and lowered his earned run average of 1.63. It ran his streak of scoreless innings to 34 against the hapless New York Mets.

The way Koufax is going he not only should win the Cy Young Award but also pitch the Dodgers to the National League flag.

The Dodgers are a platoon team for when the opposition pitches a right hunder such sluggers as Frank Howard and Bill Skowron sit it out. And if Skowron and Howard start, any kind of a lead finds them being replaced as defensive gestures. Jim Gilliam often is spelled at second by the faster hands of rookie Nate Oliver, and John Roseboro seldom catches when southpaws pitch.

Alston has done an admirable job managing a team that shows lapses in the field and lack of power. But when Sandy Koufax pitches the Dodgers look like the best in baseball.

Ferguson Impresses Steelers

WEST LIBERTY, W. Va. (AP) —Bob Ferguson knows how it feels to be alone in a crowd.

The two-time All-American full-back from Ohio State couldn't have been more isolated than he was last year in his rookie season with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Though touted as the man to nourish the Steelers' weak rushing game, Ferguson blundered badly in early trials and he soon found himself ostracized by his clannish teammates.

But it's different this season. He's been one of the most impressive men in camp and the other players know it.

"Everyone's a lot friendlier," the fairly Ferguson said as he sat in his room in the West Liberty State College campus where the National Football League club is in training. "I know I didn't do well last year but I know I can play professional football. I have to show them."

Shows Hustle

One way he is showing them is by his hustle.

"Ferguson is really working, really working," said an enthused Buddy Dial, the Steelers' pass-catching star. "He's really hustling. He acts like he wants to help the ball club."

Dial is particularly aware of Ferguson's transformation. Late last season Dial was quoted as saying Ferguson belonged on the "Olympic Sleeping Team." The off-the-cuff remark was meant in jest but it was an accurate description of the impression made by the lethargic Ferguson.

"Last year," Steelers' coach Buddy Parker said, "Ferguson couldn't catch, he couldn't block and he didn't know his plays. He'd stand around by himself looking like he was lost."

"But he really looks good this year. Not only has he been running well, but he has blocked well and catches everything thrown to him."

Better Attitude

"And he's got a better disposition, a better attitude. Look, I've always believed he was a good football player. He had to be to play as well in the Big Ten."

For three years, the 5-foot-11, 220-pound battering ram was the scourge of the rugged Big Ten. He lost only six yards rushing in his career,umping for 2162 yards—an average of 5.1 yards per carry—and 26 touchdowns.

In his senior year, he won the Maxwell Club trophy as the nation's outstanding collegiate football player—the first Negro ever so honored. The Washington and Cleveland Touchdown Clubs tabbed him as "Player of the Year."

So what went wrong? "I missed out on a lot," Ferguson answers. "All the rest of the rookies were in camp three weeks before me. I played in four or five all star games and got confused by the different systems. Then I got hurt and missed a few games."

Parker agrees with this theory. "Sometimes it takes a rookie a year to catch on," he said. "Ferguson got a late start last year because of the All Star game and he never did catch up."

Maybe he finally has caught up!

76ers New Name Of Philly Five

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The new Philadelphia team in the National Basketball Association will be known as the Philadelphia 76ers.

Irv Kosloff, club president, said the nickname was selected from 4,000 entries and more than 450 different suggestions in a name the club contest.

Walter Stalberg, a quality control statistician, was the contest winner.

Stalberg said his reason for 76ers was:

"No athletic team has ever paid tribute to the gallant men who fought this country's independence, and certainly, Philadelphia, Shrine of Liberty, should do so."

Red China Blames Khrushchev For Split

(Third in a five-part series)
By William L. Ryan
AP Special Correspondent

RED CHINA'S embassy in Moscow is on Druzhba Street. Druzhba means friendship in Russian.

In spite of old suspicions and old wounds, there might have been a little more "druzhba" after Stalin died if Nikita Khrushchev had been satisfied to play in his own back yard. He wasn't.

Khrushchev waded into Asia with a bang. His road show—with the yet-to-be-purged Premier Nikita Khrushchev in tow—spread the new word: Russians and Asians were brothers. He ended blustery good will.

The Red Chinese were annoyed. Khrushchev, taking a leaf from the old imperialist book, was out to catch more flies with honey than with vinegar. He was operating almost on the style of the Victorian British. Soviet projects and technicians would go to the aid of India, Afghanistan and subsequently to Egypt and other countries whose governments were basically anti-Communist.

The Chinese grumbled: World revolution would not be advanced by helping "bourgeois" regimes. Communist economic power should be used to foster revolutions and to help Communist-ruled nations.

There was more to Peking's annoyance than that. Khrushchev had laid down a "peaceful co-existence" policy at the 1956 Soviet Communist Congress.

Did this mean pulling the brakes on a Communist locomotive ready to roar across Southeast Asia? Was this the old popular front line of the Stalin era, when Moscow was weak and unready?

Mao Tse-tung's politburo was not alone in its annoyance. Stalinist stalwarts in Moscow decided Khrushchev was dangerous to party authority and had to go.

Khrushchev outmaneuvered his foes. In mid-1957 he tossed out of power those he called "the anti-party group." Out, too, went the war hero, Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov. Up into orbit went Russia's first Sputnik. Khrushchev appeared very much the man in control. But he had problems.

Declaration of 1957
Confusion and disarray in the Red world movement over Khrushchev's direction signals led to a meeting of Communist leaders in Moscow in November 1957. This produced the often-cited 1957 Moscow Declaration, which the Chinese signed — probably reluctantly — and which they later interpreted in their own way.

Among other things, the declaration directed Communist parties to seek united fronts with other elements in the free world in a long-term drive for supremacy.

The declaration warned, however, that there was no abandonment of violent revolution. It could be used when conditions permitted.

To the Chinese, all this limited Communist freedom of aggressive action.

Khrushchev explained: It might now be necessary to compromise with "the imperialists." Those who did not believe communism could win by means short of world war had no faith in the movement. Violence could be used in some cases — but Moscow would call the signals.

The U.S.S.R. had much to lose in world war — the Chinese little. Mao Tse-tung had put forward the idea that China could lose half her population and still emerge from world war more populous than any other nation.

Khrushchev's views, Peking muttered, were the stuff of heresy. "Modern revisionists" — meaning Khrushchev — were as bad as or worse than the heretic Tito of Yugoslavia whom Stalin quarantined.

No Communist worth his salt, argued Peking, would lose an opportunity to move in on what the Reds call "the national democratic revolution" in Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America.

"The essence of modern revisionism is capitulation in the name of peace," said the Red Chinese.

Mao Got Madder
In 1958 Khrushchev turned thumbs down on a Communist grab for Iraq in the Middle East, and the Chinese burned. Matters got worse. In 1959, Khrushchev went to the United States and described President Eisenhower as "a man of peace." The Red Chinese howled in anger.

The quarrel subsided briefly in 1960 when Khrushchev used the U-2 spy plane incident to break up the Paris summit conference. But he failed to follow through on his threats and the quarrel with Peking rose in tempo.

To the Chinese, Khrushchev had become a roadblock on the path to swift Communist conquests. To Khrushchev, the Chinese were reckless to the point of endangering the Soviet Union.

In vain, Moscow explained. It still supported world revolution, it backed internal subversion, propaganda, economic offensives, local civil wars, stopping short only at the point where there might be danger of world war.

Next: The catalog of sins.

Pittsburgh Race March Threatened

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An agreement was reached Tuesday in an effort to head off a scheduled mass demonstration by Negroes Wednesday against what they claim is discrimination by a Pittsburgh construction firm.

Negro leaders and officials of the Navarro Corp. met for five hours Tuesday but would not reveal the details of the settlement.

Byrd R. Brown, president of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and spokesman for the Negro negotiating committee, said the committee will recommend that the demonstration at the downtown Pittsburgh construction site be called off.

Although neither side would discuss details of the agreement, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette reported that the agreement covers the hiring of more Negroes in four job categories: common laborers, carpenters, operating engineers, and cement finishers.

Red China Blames Khrushchev For Split

(Third in a five-part series)
By William L. Ryan
AP Special Correspondent

RED CHINA'S embassy in Moscow is on Druzhba Street. Druzhba means friendship in Moscow. In spite of old suspicions and old wounds, there might have been a little more "druzhba" after Stalin died if Nikita Khrushchev had been satisfied to play in his own back yard. He wasn't.

Khrushchev waded into Asia with a bang. His road show—with the yet-to-be-purged Premier Nikita Khrushchev in tow—spread the new word: Russians and Asians were brothers. He exuded bluetery good will.

The Red Chinese were annoyed. Khrushchev, taking a leaf from the old imperialist book, was out to catch more flies with honey than with vinegar. He was operating almost on the style of the Victorian British. Soviet projects and technicians would go to the aid of India, Afghanistan and subsequently to Egypt and other countries whose governments were basically anti-Communist.

The Chinese grumbled: World revolution would not be advanced by helping "bourgeois" regimes. Communist economic power should be used to foster revolutions and to help Communist-ruled nations.

There was more to Peking's annoyance than that. Khrushchev had laid down a "peaceful co-existence" policy at the 1956 Soviet Communist Congress.

Did this mean pulling the brakes on a Communist locomotive ready to roar across Southeast Asia? Was this the old popular front line of the Stalin era, when Moscow was weak and unready?

Mao Tse-tung's politburo was not alone in its annoyance. Stalinist stalwarts in Moscow decided Khrushchev was dangerous to party authority and had to go.

Khrushchev outmaneuvered his foes. In mid-1957 he tossed out of power those he called "the anti-party group." Out, too, went the war hero, Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov. Up into orbit went Russia's first Sputnik. Khrushchev appeared very much the man in control. But he had problems.

Declaration of 1957
Confusion and disarray in the Red world movement over Khrushchev's direction signals led to a meeting of Communist leaders in Moscow in November 1957. This produced the often-cited 1957 Moscow Declaration, which the Chinese signed—probably reluctantly—and which they later interpreted in their own way.

Among other things, the declaration directed Communist parties to seek united fronts with other elements in the free world in a long-term drive for supremacy. The declaration warned, however, that there was no abandonment of violent revolution. It could be used when conditions permitted.

To the Chinese, all this limited Communist freedom of aggressive action.

Khrushchev explained: It might not be necessary to compromise with "the imperialists." Those who did not believe communism could win by means short of world war had no faith in the movement. Violence could be used in some cases—but Moscow would call the signals.

The U.S.S.R. had much to lose in world war—the Chinese little. Mao Tse-tung had put forward the idea that China could lose half her population and still emerge from world war more populous than any other nation.

Khrushchev's views, Peking muttered, were the stuff heresy was made of. Khrushchev revised Lenin. "Modern revisionists"—meaning Khrushchev—were as bad as or worse than the heretic Tito of Yugoslavia whom Stalin quarantined.

No Communist worth his salt, argued Peking, would lose an opportunity to move in on what the Reds call "the national democratic revolution" in Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America.

"The essence of modern revisionism is capitulation in the name of peace," said the Red Chinese.

Mao Got Madder

In 1958 Khrushchev turned thumbs down on a Communist grab for Iraq in the Middle East, and the Chinese burned. Matters got worse. In 1959, Khrushchev went to the United States and described President Eisenhower as "a man of peace." The Red Chinese howled in anger.

The quarrel subsided briefly in 1960 when Khrushchev used the U-2 spy plane incident to break up the Paris summit conference. But he failed to follow through on his threats and the quarrel with Peking rose in tempo.

To the Chinese, Khrushchev had become a roadblock on the path to swift Communist conquests. To Khrushchev, the Chinese were recidivists to the point of endangering the Soviet Union.

In vain, Moscow explained its backed internal revolution, propaganda, economic offensives, local civil wars, stopping short only at the point where there might be danger of world war.

Pittsburgh Race March Threatened

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An agreement was reached Tuesday in an effort to head off a scheduled mass demonstration by Negroes Wednesday against what they claim is discrimination by a Pittsburgh construction firm.

Negro leaders and officials of the Navarro Corp. met for five hours Tuesday but would not reveal the details of the settlement.

Byrd R. Brown, president of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and spokesman for the Negro negotiating committee, said the demonstration at the downtown Pittsburgh construction site be called off.

Although neither side would discuss details of the agreement, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette reported that the agreement covers the hiring of more Negroes in four job categories: common laborers, carpenters, operating engineers, and cement finishers.

Non-Blooming Rose Bushes

By George Abraham

BLIND ROSES: When a rose refuses to blossom it is said to be blind. What causes this blindness of roses? No one has yet been able to furnish a good answer. Shortage of sunlight is probably a main factor since the plants cannot make enough food for flower bud formation.

Occasionally blind growth occurs when the bush is making fast growth. In other words, if the soil is too rich, you get all bush and no bloom.

Blindness due to too heavy growth can be partially corrected by restricting the number of new canes early in the season just as the buds start out.

I might add another reason for non-blooming which is the age of the bush. For example, a Peace chandler usually does not bloom until the third year, and even then it produces sparse blooms. The Peace chandler blooms from growth originating from old wood and must be established in the garden long enough to produce these older canes.

Quite often readers are puzzled to find their roses have reverted to a different color. Actually, a rose never changes color except in the case of seedling and sport or mutation. When a whole bush appears to have changed color you can blame it on winter injury.

What happens is this: The main variety dies out and the understock below the graft continues to grow, produces flowers. All that can be done is to remove this bush and replace it.

EARLY GRAPES: Most home gardeners who grow early grapes are troubled with bees and wasps attacking the clusters. Actually these insects have nothing to do with eating of the fruit. Usually a dry spell, followed by a heavy rain near ripening time, will burst the berries. The bees and wasps are attracted by the sugary juice.

SUGGESTIONS: For keeping the insects off the berries so they will still be usable to jam and jelly, many gardeners wrap plastic bags, paper bags or cheese cloth over the clusters.

SWEET CORN: Most folks overcook sweet corn. Four minutes is plenty long enough to heat it in the water. Better the corn than the water in aluminum foil.

For freezing on the table, select small ears, blanch in boiling water for four minutes and cool immediately in ice water. Place in plastic bags and freeze. Later, for table use, place ear in a shallow pan and heat in 100 degrees oven for 10 minutes.

HOUSE PLANTS: When you have plants growing on your windowsill, you may wonder why they are not blooming.

Let them take care of themselves! One trick is to place a few beads in the bottom of your potting pan in a couple inches of water and place the plant in the water. The beads will absorb the water and prevent the roots from rotting.

Some use a box of insecticide and just put the plant in it. Several times a week, spray the plant with the insecticide. If you do this, you must be sure to use the insecticide in a well-ventilated area.

Another idea is to water your potted plants, then place a plastic bag over each. Tie the bag to the plant with a rubber band. You should have some air holes in the bag, so the plant can breathe, and I wouldn't attempt the bag idea on leafy plants such as African Violets. And don't place those plastic-wrapped plants in full sun. The plants are apt to cook inside.

DUTCH ELM DISEASE: Every now and then some one comes out with a cure for the Dutch Elm Disease. You probably saw the headline on a recent national television broadcast which mentioned a new "pellet" for stopping the disease.

This is pure poppycock for there are no chemical pellets, tablets, injections or materials of any kind that can control the disease and still leave the tree in good health.

Cutting out infected trees and planting healthy trees to replace the infected ones is the only method for controlling the Dutch Elm disease.

PLANT LICE: In dry weather, plant lice aphids are apt to be troublesome to ornamentals such as hydrangeas, clematises, and other plants.

This pest does not move about, but lives in clusters. Aphids have a sucking mouthpart and can drain the sap from a plant, causing it to be malformed and misshapen. They secrete a "honeydew" which attracts ants and favors the growth of a sooty mold that covers the appearance of leaves and flowers.

They can ruin leaves plants by sucking their ability to multiply so rapidly.

COLIFORD: Sprays with nicotine sulfate or Malathion. Add a pinch of soap or detergent to the solution to increase the effectiveness.

GARDEN PESTICIDES: Pesticides are sold in various forms in gardening and gardening. If you are a beginner, use of these pesticides.

(1) Always read the label, note all warnings and cautions.

(2) Keep chemicals out of reach of pets and children.

(3) Keep sprays and dusts in original containers, tightly closed.

(4) Never smoke while spraying or dusting.

(5) Avoid inhaling sprays or dusts, and keep it off skin or clothing.

(6) Cover bird baths, dog dishes, fish pools before spraying.

(7) Dispose of empty containers.

(8) Do not plant mint, strawberries, tomatoes, etc. near ornamentals that may be sprayed frequently with pesticides.

ALWAYS READ THE LABEL AND FOLLOW DIRECTIONS.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: R. of Long Pond: "Please settle an argument with me and my wife. We have 2 dozen tomato plants in the backyard. They have in numerous amount of foliage, but only a few berries. Would it be advisable to trim off some of the foliage, or should we let them go to the blossoms. I say this can be done."

It wouldn't help to trim the leaves since the operation in no way encourages blossom formation. Heavy, vigorous foliage is probably due to too much nitrogen in the soil. This encourages rank growth at the expense of few flowers. Also, it could be due to your using a late variety which has not really had a chance to get started yet. In either case, pinning the plants would not have much effect on their flowering.

If you stake your plants, you might want to prune them a little just for the sake of handling, but keep in mind that leaving some extra foliage on the plants is helpful in reducing sun scald and cracking.

D. R. of Canton: "I heard that the black plastic mulch is bad for the vegetable garden because it traps the heat into the soil. Is this true? I don't think it is. It is black in color, but does not allow the sun to go through it. By conserving moisture it actually keeps the soil cool and increases the yields, especially tomatoes and melons and strawberries. It does a fine job keeping the weeds down and would like to see you try it. If no other mulch material is available, during August, a garden will benefit. bushes do not bloom! That is why you often see flowers once in a while there will be a flower or two at the base, but none at the upper ends. That's all, Wagon."

Your only alternative is to place a burlap screen around the bush during the winter months. Sometimes heavy shade and extra-rich soils will prevent flower buds from forming also.

Several suggestions have been made to fight weeds: (1) table salt poured over them; (2) burning with gasoline; (3) scattering borax over the cracks; (4) using Ammonia weedkiller, one pound to a gallon of water and poured on. None of these will injure the blades of concrete.

Some weeds can be handpulled when in the seedling stage, and if your walk is not too long, this is feasible.

One of our readers tells us he uses a small gas torch to trim the weeds and it works fine.

R.D. of Stroudsburg: "Please tell us why our chickens and ducks do not bloom! That is why you often see flowers once in a while there will be a flower or two at the base, but none at the upper ends. That's all, Wagon."

Guess the cost of one page of advertising... in one copy of the daily newspaper!

ANSWER:... JUST ABOUT A PENNY! In spite of greatly increased costs of production and moderate rate increases, you can still buy a big full-page newspaper ad, to run in every daily in the U.S., for about a penny a copy. And an advertiser can continue to plan future newspaper campaigns secure in the knowledge that any cost increase will be moderate and will not disrupt his budget. That's why so many use newspapers.

Green Thumb

Non-Blooming Rose Bushes

By George Abraham

BLIND ROSES: When a rose refuses to blossom it is said to be blind. What causes this blindness of roses? No one has yet been able to furnish a good answer. Shortage of sunlight is probably a main factor since the plants cannot make enough food for flower bud formation.

Occasionally blind growth occurs when the bush is making fast growth. In other words, if the soil is too rich, you get all bush and no bloom.

Blindness due to too heavy growth can be partially corrected by restricting the number of new canes early in the season just as the buds start out.

I might add another reason for non-blooming which is the age of the bush. For example, a Peace climber usually does not bloom until the third year, and even then it produces sparse blooms. The Peace climber blooms from growth emanating from old wood and must be established in the garden long enough to produce these older canes.

Quite often readers are puzzled to find their roses have reverted to a different color. Actually a rose never changes color except in the case of sending out a sport or mutation. When a whole bush appears to have changed color you can blame it on winter injury.

What happens is this: the name variety dies out and the understock below the graft continues to grow profits own flowers. All that can be done is to remove the bush and replace it.

EARLY GRAPES: Most home gardeners who grow early grapes are troubled with bees and wasps attacking the clusters. Actually these insects have nothing to do with cracking of the fruit. Usually a dry spell, followed by a heavy rain near ripening time, will burst the berries. The bees and wasps are attracted by the sugary juice.

SUGGESTIONS: For keeping the insects off the berries so they will still be usable to jam and juice, many gardeners slip perforated plastic bags, paper bags or cheese cloth over the clusters.

SWEET CORN: Most folks overcook sweet corn. Four minutes is plenty long enough to boil the ears. If you want to broil it in the oven, butter the ears then wrap in aluminum foil.

For freezing on the cob, select small ears, blanch in boiling water for four minutes and cool immediately in ice water. Place in plastic bags and freeze. Later, for table use, place ears in a shallow pan and heat in 350 degrees oven for 30 minutes.

HOUSE PLANTS: who waters your plants while you are on vacation?

Let them take care of themselves! One trick is to place a few bricks in the bottom of your bathtub, run in a couple inches of water, and place the plants on the bricks. They'll automatically water themselves for three or four weeks.

Some use a box of moistened sand and get the same effect. Never use newspapers on the bottom of the tub. A plumber reminds us that the ink from the paper can stain the enamel.

Another idea is to water your potted plants, then place a plastic bag over each. Fasten the bottom with a rubber band. You should have some air holes in the bag, so gases can escape, and I wouldn't attempt the tent idea on touchy items such as African Violets. And don't place those plastic-wrapped plants in full sun. The plants are apt to cook inside.

DUTCH ELM DISEASE: Every now and then some one comes out with a cure for the Dutch Elm Disease. You probably saw the billyhood on a recent national television broadcast which mentioned a new "pellet" for stopping the disease.

This is pure poppycock for there are no chemical pellets, tablets, injections or materials of any kind that can control the disease and still have the tree in good health.

Cutting out infected trees and spraying healthy trees to control the scolytus beetle which spreads the disease are our only means for combating the dutch elm disease.

PLANT LICE: In dry weather, plant lice (aphids) are apt to be troublesome to ornamentals such as nasturtiums, snapdragons, and other items.

This pest does not move about, but lives in clusters. Aphids have a sucking mouthpart and can drain the juice from a plant, causing buds to distort, harden and flowerers to be malformed and messy.

They secrete a "honeydew" which attracts ants and favors the growth of a sooty mold that ruins the appearance of flowers and foliage.

They can ruin house plants because of their ability to multiply so rapidly.

CONTROL: Spray with nicotine sulfate or Malathion. Add a pinch of soap or detergent to the solution to increase the effectiveness.

GARDEN PESTICIDES: Pesticides are safe and valuable tools in farming and gardening. Here are a few tips on safe use of these pesticides.

(1) Always read the label, note all warnings and cautions.

(2) Keep chemicals out of reach of pets and children.

(3) Keep sprays and dusts in original containers, tightly closed.

(4) Never smoke while spraying or dusting.

(5) Avoid inhaling sprays or dusts, and keep it off skin or clothing.

(6) Cover bird baths, dog dishes, fish pools before spraying.

(7) Dispose of empty containers.

(8) Do not plant mint, strawberries, tomatoes, etc. near ornamentals that may be sprayed frequently with pesticides.

ALWAYS READ THE LABEL AND FOLLOW DIRECTIONS.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: F. R. of Long Pond: "Please settle an argument with me and my wife. We have 2 dozen tomato plants in the backyard. They have an enormous amount of foliage, but only a few flowers. Would it be advisable to trim off some leaves so some of the strength will go to the blossoms. I say this can be done."

It wouldn't help to trim the leaves since the operation in no way encourages blossom formation. Heavy, vigorous foliage is probably due to too much nitrogen in the soil. This encourages rank growth at the expense of few flowers. Also, it could be due to your using a late variety which has not really had a chance to get started yet. In either case, pruning the plants would not have much effect on their flowering.

If you stake your plants, you might want to prune them a little, just for the sake of handling, but keep in mind that leaving some extra foliage on the plants is helpful in reducing sun scald and cracking.

D. R. of Califon: "I heard that for the black plastic mulch is bad for the vegetable gardens because it traps the heat into the soil. Is this true?" I doubt it. It is black in color, but does not allow the sun to go through it. By conserving moisture it actually keeps the soil cool and increases the yields, especially tomatoes and melons and strawberries. It does a fine job keeping the weeds down and we'd like to see you try it, if no other mulch material is available. During August, a garden will need about two inches of water a week, but if you use a good mulch such as plastic, sawdust, straw, etc., you can cut this about half.

H. R. of Easton: "Please tell us how to discourage grass growing in the cracks of my sidewalk. I pull them out but they keep on coming in."

Several suggestions have been made to fight weeds: (1) table salt poured over them; (2) Drenching with gasoline (3) Scattering borax over the cracks (4) using Ammate weedkiller, one pound to a gallon of water and poured on. None of these will injure the bricks or concrete.

Some weeds can be handpulled when in the seedling stage, and if your walk is not too long, this is feasible.

One of our readers tells us he uses a small gas torch to trim the weeds and it works fine.

K.D. of Stroudsburg: "Please tell us why our m-orange and forsythia bushes do not bloom. Once in a while there will be a flower or two at the base, but that's all. Why?"

In your case your winters have ruined the buds, hence no blooms. If growing in an exposed situation, the buds are injured, especially if there is no snow cover.

That is why you often see flowers on the lower part of the bushes and none at the upper ends.

Your only alternative is to place a burlap screen around the bush during the winter months. Sometimes heavy shade and extra-rich soils will prevent flower buds from forming also.

Farm Week Slated

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Tuesday proclaimed the week of Nov. 22 as national farm-city week and urged urban and rural people to exchange visits so that each will better understand the other.

Latin Freighters

NEW YORK (AP)—American Express said it has purchased Latin American Cargo expeditors, Inc., Miami-based freight firm serving Latin America and southeastern United States. No financial details were given.

Guess the cost of one page of advertising... in one copy of the daily newspaper!

ANSWER:... JUST ABOUT A PENNY! In spite of greatly increased costs of production and moderate rate increases, you can still buy a big full-page newspaper ad, to run in every daily in the U.S., for about a penny a copy. And an advertiser can continue to plan future newspaper campaigns secure in the knowledge that any cost increase will be moderate and will not disrupt his budget. That's why so many use newspapers.

Puts, Calls Vs. Shorts

By William A. Doyle

Q. Is there really much difference between buying "put and call" options and "selling short?"

A. Yes. Once you get past the fact that these are all methods of out-and-out speculation in polite word for gambling, the similarity ends.

A short sale is a device for selling stock you do not own.

When you sell short, you sell stock you have borrowed (normally through your broker) in the hopes that the market value of that stock will fall. Sooner or later you will buy an equal number of shares to deliver back to the lender of the shares you sold short. That's known as "covering" your short sale.

If you buy the stock at a lower price than the price at which you sold short, you have a profit. If you buy back at a higher price than your short sale price, you have a loss.

Puts and calls are options to sell or buy stocks, at specified

prices for specified lengths of time. A put is an option to sell. A call is an option to buy.

For instance, you might buy (and pay money for) a put and call broker) giving you the right to sell 100 shares of XYZ stock, at $50 a share, anytime within the next six months. If the market price of XYZ stock drops below $50 a share, you could then buy it at the lower market price and exercise your put option by selling it at the $50 a share price specified in the put option—thereby making a profit.

Or you might buy a call, giving you the right to purchase 100 shares of XYZ stock, at $50 a share, anytime within the next six months. If the market price of XYZ stock goes up, you could exercise your call option by buying it at the $50-a-share price specified in the call option and then selling at the higher market price—thereby making a profit.

However, if things don't work out as you hope, you lose money—the money you paid when you bought the put or call.

Q. We are 73 and 71 years old and trying to put our financial affairs in order. We exchanged some old Series E U.S. Savings Bonds we owned for a $500 Series H bond.

As you have explained in your column, we did not have to pay any income tax on the interest that had built up on the old E bonds. But the H bond has this notation stamped on it:

"This bond includes $106.52 interest on Series E, F, or J bonds reportable for Federal income tax purposes for the year it is redeemed, disposed of, or matures, whichever is earlier."

We intend to leave this H bond to our daughter. Does this mean that she will have to pay income tax on the $106.52 when she inherits the bond?

A. No. At least she won't unless the Kennedy Administration is able to ram through some of the proposed changes in the tax laws in the guise of what the outsiders of the New Frontier like to call "plugging tax loopholes."

Under the present tax code, that H bond and other securities you own will have a new tax-cost basis. In most cases, that will be the value of the securities on the date of your death.

That will have the effect of wiping out any income tax liability on that $106.52 for your estate and your heirs.

Of course, the value of the bond and any other securities you own will be included in your estate for Federal estate tax and state inheritance tax purposes.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Puts, Calls Vs. Shorts

By William A. Doyle

Q. Is there really much difference between buying "put and call" options and "selling short?"

A. Yes. Once you get past the fact that these are all methods of out-and-out speculation (a polite word for gambling), the similarity ends.

A short sale is a device for selling stock you do not own.

When you sell short, you sell stock you have borrowed (normally through your broker) in the hopes that the market value of that stock will fall. Sooner or later you will buy an equal number of shares to deliver back to the lender of the shares you sold short. That's known as "covering" your short sale.

If you buy the stock at a lower price than the price at which you sold short, you have a profit. If you buy back at a higher price than your short sale price, you have a loss.

Puts and calls are options to sell or buy stocks, at specified

prices for specified lengths of time. A put is an option to sell. A call is an option to buy.

For instance, you might buy (and pay money to a put and call broker), giving you the right to sell 100 shares of XYZ stock, at $50 a share, anytime within the next six months. If the market price of XYZ stock drops below $50 a share, you could then buy it at the lower market price and exercise your put option by selling it at the $50 a share price specified in the put option—thereby making a profit.

Or you might buy a call, giving you the right to purchase 100 shares of XYZ stock, at $50 a share, anytime within the next six months. If the market price of XYZ stock goes up, you could exercise your call option by buying it at the $50-a-share price specified in the call option and then selling at the higher market price—thereby making a profit.

However, if things don't work out as you hope, you lose money—the money you paid when you bought the put or call.

Q. We are 73 and 74 years old and trying to put our financial affairs in order. We exchanged some old Series E U.S. Savings Bonds we owned for a $200 Series H bond.

As you have explained in your column, we did not have to pay any income tax on the interest that had built up on the old E bonds. But the H bond has this notation stamped on it:

"This bond includes $196.32 interest on Series E, F, or J bonds reportable for Federal income tax purposes for the year it is redeemed, disposed of, or matures, whichever is earlier."

We intend to leave this H bond to our daughter. Does this mean that she will have to pay income tax on the $196.32 when she inherits the bond?

A. No. At least she won't unless the Kennedy Administration is able to ram through some of the proposed changes in the tax laws in the guise of what the outsiders of the New Frontier like to call "plugging tax loopholes."

Under the present tax code, that H bond and other securities you own will have a new tax-cost basis. In most cases, that will be the value of the securities on the date of your death.

That will have the effect of wiping out any income tax liability on that $196.32 for your estate and your heirs.

Of course, the value of the bond and any other securities you own will be included in your estate for Federal estate tax and state inheritance tax purposes.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries).

Moravian Church To Mark Anniversary

NEWFOUNDLAND — One hundred and twenty-six years of "good, hard work in the name of God," will be observed on Sunday, August 11, by the Moravian Church here, and will be highlighted by a service of Holy Communion at 10:45 a.m., and a Love Feast at 8 p.m.

The church, which has an average attendance of approximately 100 during morning worship and of 92 at Sunday School, began first as the Hopedale Moravian Church. Its founders came from Gindelsheim, Grand Duchy of Baden, Germany, early in the nineteenth century, to a tract of land of 1971 acres, unsurveyed, in the valley of the Wallenpaupack Creek, a valley which was to become, in the mid-twentieth century, a beautiful resort area where thousands of vacationers flock each summer.

Services were held, at first, in the houses of the colonists, who had sought help in organizing a church from the people of the faith who had helped them find freedom in America, the Moravians.

About 1835, the society in fellowship with the Moravian Church was organized, with a donation of $500 to the "armes kleines Gemeinlein," (poor little congregation) and the money went to purchase 50 acres of land for a church farm. The church was to be built on a portion of the land.

Freeman Visits Bulgarian Farms

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, arriving in Bulgaria's capital of Sofia Monday for a tour of collectivized farms, found his hosts enthusiastic over the limited nuclear test ban treaty signed in Moscow.

Freeman said, "It is significant that we have agreed to no longer poison the atmosphere and water by nuclear testing. Now we can get on with the job of agriculture to produce the food and fiber to meet the needs of mankind—a sure path to a peaceful world."

As in Romania, another country where Freeman was the first U.S. cabinet member to visit since World War II, he is expected to hear Bulgarian requests for increased trade with the United States.

and the remaining acreage was dedicated in 1837. A second church replaced the first in 1853, and a third was built in 1908. This latter was the present church, in which the celebration this Sunday of 126 years of work and Christian service will take place.

The Rev. Larry Lindenmuth, the 28th pastor of the local church, will have charge of the services.
